THIRTY PAGES—TEN CENTS

Guam-Based Jets Bomb Viet Cong

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—B52 jet bombers of the U.S. Strategic Air Command blasted suspected Viet Cong positions at Mang Yang Pass Saturday in support of Vietnamese troops campaigning to clear a central highlands supply route. A U.S. spokesman announced between 25 and 30 of the big planes from Guam dumped 500 tons of bombs in the joint effort to free convoys on Route 19 of Red harassment. The planes struck in clear weather. The spokesman said this was the first time the eight-engine B52s have ever been used in support of a ground operation, tactical job ordinarily assigned to smaller craft.

7 Persons Die In 4 Car Crash

JOLIET, Ill. (AP)—Four cars hurtled together at 70-mile-an-hour speeds just after dawn Saturday morning, killing seven persons, injuring five and strewn blood-spattered wreckage across U.S. 66.

Willard Blood, coroner of Will County for 17 years and an undertaker, called it "the worst multiple fatality accident I've ever seen."

The dead included Carl W. Drehe, 50, of New Lenox, Ill., whose auto police said was traveling north in the south-bound lanes of the four-lane, divided highway when the fiery smashup occurred some 25 miles southwest of Joliet.

The crash also killed four occupants of another car — Michael Kommer, 20, of Colonial Village, Ill., and Michael Fleming, 24, Dennis Siefert, 21, and William J. Bianchi, all of Chicago. Police said they do not know who was driving.

Mrs. Ferne Amrine, 58, of Glen Ellyn, a Chicago suburb, and her sister, Mrs. Carrie Bry (Continued On Page Eleven)

Kosygin Renews Assault On U.S. Viet Nam Policy

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Alexei N. Kosygin warned Saturday that the Communist world is prepared to meet every American move in the stakes of what he called the "extremely dangerous" U.S. gamble in Viet Nam. "The United States must realize that in both physics and politics, each action causes a corresponding counteraction," Kosygin said in a speech in the Latvian capital of Riga.

"Each new aggressive action in Viet Nam undertaken by the Americans is meeting and will inevitably meet a corresponding rebuff from the forces of national liberation and the Socialist states."

Kosygin's comments were believed to be substantially the same as those conveyed to Washington through U.S. roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman last week.

Washington has said that Harriman's talk with the premier Thursday was of interest but did not change the situation. Harriman later declined to discuss the speech saying: "It is not appropriate for me to comment on a speech of Mr. Kosygin's."

The Soviet government chief's hostile remarks on Viet Nam ended a short-lived lull in anti-American attacks by top Soviet leaders.

Kosygin and Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev completely omitted Viet Nam from major speeches in Volgograd and Leningrad recently. The lull appeared to coincide with the arrival Monday of Harriman on a working vacation visit.

But Kosygin returned to the Viet Nam theme with a vengeance, accusing the United States of turning "interference into others' affairs the guiding principle of its foreign policy." "The policy conducted by the United States is extremely dangerous because it blocks relaxation of international tensions and creates an exceptionally dangerous situation which threatens peace not only in Southeast Asia but also in the entire world," he said.

In an apparent reference to American plans for increasing military forces in Viet Nam, Kosygin said that the United States is "constantly increasing the stakes in the gamble in which it is engaged."

Kosygin also repeated Soviet pledges to render "all the aid necessary to repel the aggression" against North Viet Nam. This commitment was conspicuously absent from his speech last weekend.

The Kremlin leaders' silence on Viet Nam was broken earlier by Communist party Presidium member Mikhail Suslov who spoke in Vilnius, the capital of Lithuania.

His slap at the United States on Viet Nam contrasted sharply with a speech an hour earlier by President Anastas I. Mikoyan who made no reference to the subject while speaking in the Estonian capital of Tallin.

JUDGE ORDERS STRIKING UNION NOT TO INTERFERE

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. (AP)—Circuit Judge Harold Clark ordered a striking union Saturday not to interfere with operations at a Granite City, Ill., plant.

Clark issued a temporary injunction against Local 7-663 of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union and set a hearing on a permanent injunction Wednesday.

Officials of the Union Starch and Refining Co. have reported several acts of violence against their plant by person or persons unknown within the past week. The union struck July 5.

Several thousand dollars in damage was caused early Friday when vandals broke into a gate house at the plant main entrance and destroyed cameras and other photographic equipment.

Earlier in the week, plant windows were broken by rocks. Clark ordered damaging of company property halted. He also said that only four union pickets could march at each entrance of the Union Starch plant.

FATAL CRASH STATISTICS

WASHINGTON (AP)—There have been more than 10,000 fatal airplane crashes in U.S. civil aviation in the past quarter century, and more than 20,000 persons have been killed in them.

By far the greater number have involved light aircraft — private planes, sports craft, corporate planes and the like. Most of the general aviation accidents from 1939 through 1963 were of a relatively minor nature, but 10,337 of them brought death to 17,246 persons, the CAB said.

By comparison, CAB statistics for the U.S. scheduled airlines for the same 25-year period list 1,098 accidents, including 157 fatal crashes in which 3,310 persons were killed.

SHOW NEW LAB

LOS ALAMOS, N.M. (AP)—The wraps were taken off the $250 million Los Alamos laboratory Saturday letting the public into the mountainside facility that grew from a temporary wartime installation.

The occasion was Family Days, a two-day open house in which the laboratory opened to the public the birthplace of the atomic bomb.

He commemorated the 20th anniversary of the explosion of the first bomb near Carrazzo in south-central New Mexico.

Johnsons To Attend Stevenson Services

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.: Surrounded by an honor guard, the body of UN Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson lies in state in the rotunda of the Illinois State Capitol on the same catafalque on which the body of Abraham Lincoln rested 100 years ago. Friends, relatives and thousands of mourners are expected to file past the coffin which will lie in state here until Sunday afternoon. (UPI Telephoto)

THURMONT, Md. (AP)—President and Mrs. Johnson will attend final rites for Adlai E. Stevenson in Bloomington, Ill., Monday.

Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers disclosed Saturday night the President's decision to fly to Bloomington for the services.

The President's elder daughter, Lynda Bird, who is vacationing in the west, has made known that she, too, plans to fly to Bloomington.

Johnson flew to Camp David by helicopter late Saturday to spend the weekend at the presidential retreat. He hoped to get in some relaxation before returning to Washington either Sunday night or early Monday for the flight to Bloomington.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson, that gentleman of wit and wisdom who gained worldwide renown, was officially honored Saturday by his old home state as an eloquent son — one who had done his tasks "honorably and well."

Gov. Otto Kerner said as he faced Stevenson's coffin resting on a table on which Abraham Lincoln's body was once placed: "His name is written indelibly into our history. His memory and his spirit we shall carry in our hearts."

It was a short, dignified and touching service for the politician-statesman who died of a heart attack in London Wednesday at the age of 65.

Members of his family and 500 state officials and dignitaries gathered in the rotunda of the state Capitol where Stevenson once served as governor.

They heard Kerner use Stevenson's own words to express his affection for this land of fertile soil and rolling prairies.

"My heart will always be here in Illinois," Kerner quoted Stevenson as saying. "Here five generations of my family have lived and prospered. My roots are deep in our prairies and I owe Illinois a great debt. I have tried my best to discharge that debt honorably and well."

"Honorably and well," Kerner said. "How perfectly these words express the life and deeds of the 33rd governor of Illinois, the gentleman of wisdom and wit."

Again Kerner turned to Stevenson's own eloquence, saying that what Stevenson said of Lincoln could be said just as well of him.

"Lincoln was more than a writer, a spokesman," Stevenson once said. "What endears him in the minds of all freedom-loving people as the greatest democrat in our history — or any history — was his own faith in democracy, in the ability of the people to govern themselves."

Continuing his brief eulogy, Kerner said:

"We lived in the shadow of greatness, a greatness which somehow seemed to bring to each of us a special feeling, a sense of satisfaction, that we lived in the world of Adlai Stevenson."

"This is a world that is better because of the life he lived, the deeds he performed, the words he spoke and the examples he set."

Mariner Photos Reveal Mars May Have Craters

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)

Two more of Mariner 4's closeups of Mars were released Saturday and the latest showed markings reminiscent of those on the moon.

The second and third photos, like the first, displayed broad, bright areas that probably are deserts. There was no sign of "canals" some astronomers say they have seen; no evidence of any form of life.

But the third and closest shot showed what obviously are bumps or depressions. They strongly resemble some of the shallow craters depicted in close-ups of the moon by Ranger spacecraft.

Dr. William H. Pickering, director of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, which built and guided Mariner, told a news conference that no more of an expected total of up to 21 pictures will be released "for a matter of weeks."

During this period, he said, engineers and computers will vastly improve the quality of the first three shots, and others yet to be relayed to earth as Mariner heads into orbit around the sun.

Pickering called the transmission of the photos across 134 million miles of space "a magnificent success" and a fitting climax to the United States' $200-million Mars exploration program — a prestigious first exceeding Soviet deep space efforts.

Here is a description of the pictures released Saturday:

No. 3 — The best so far. High contrast. Shows details as small as two miles across. Running across the top of the frame is a series of markings, at least one of which could be a small crater, similar to those found on the moon. West of the crater is what looks like a long, shallow depression, or valley. The picture covers an area 175 miles by 310 miles and was taken from an altitude of 9,500 miles.

No. 2 — This photo, covering an area 186 miles by 550 miles, lies just north of the area covered by frame No. 3 and midway between the deserts Elysium and Amazonis. No major surface markings are visible in this frame, which overlaps into the area covered by the first picture.

Picture No. 1, released Thursday, was man's first close-up photograph of another planet.

It shows a chunk of the edge of Mars and beyond that the dark void of space. It apparently is of a desert area known as Phlegra. It shows some smudges and surface markings. Details are not quite as sharp as in the two later photos, because it was taken from an altitude of 10,500 miles, at the start of Mariner 4's 25-minute north-to-south camera run last Wednesday night.

The first three pictures presumably could have shown evidence of life on Mars — had the evidence been in the form of objects two or more miles across.

May Send More B52's To Guam

WASHINGTON (AP)—More B52 bombers may be sent to Guam if the use of the strategic-mission planes for tactical warfare in South Viet Nam continues at the present level or increases.

This outlook grew Saturday with the fourth mission of B52s to hit suspected Viet Cong targets within a month.

The latest mission, flown by up to 30 of the big planes, carrying 500 tons of conventional "iron" bombs, was described by U.S. military briefers as the first time B52s have been used in direct, coordinated support of a ground-force attack on a guerrilla area.

If the operation proves successful, it presumably will be the pattern for other and perhaps more frequent strikes.

Speculation on an increased B52 force on Guam is based on two points:

—The missions of between 25 and 30 aircraft used in Saturday's operation and in some of the earlier attacks appears to represent virtually the total (Continued On Page Eleven)

Space Station Puts Soviets Closer To Moon

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union stood Saturday a step closer to the moon as the heavy payload ever put into orbit sent back data.

The space vehicle weighing 26,896 pounds appeared to be a test of the kind of orbiting vehicles that the Russians plan to use as way stations to a lunar landing. It was named Proton 1. It successfully tested a new powerful booster rocket, possibly larger than anyone else's. The biggest American payload in orbit was 21,000 pounds.

The Soviet launching came Friday as the world was praising the success of America's Mariner 4 in photographing Mars. Transmitters on a Soviet Mars probe that was launched about the same time as Mariner failed months ago.

The official Soviet news agency Tass reported the Mariner success only briefly. But Saturday it collected favorable comment on Proton 1 from all over the world. The emphasis was heavily on beating the Americans.

Events In Viet Might Lead U.S. Into Asian Ground War

WASHINGTON (AP)—Almost inexorably, events in South Viet Nam appear to be pulling the United States into the kind of Asian ground war that many U.S. military men have felt could be fought only at great disadvantage.

This is happening because the South Vietnamese army has been unable to stem the growing power of the Communists who, some sources say, now exercise varying degree of control over about 80 per cent of the country.

The use of American air power in Viet Nam has not been enough, and now U.S. authorities are facing the unpleasant prospect that U.S. ground troops in greater numbers may have to be thrown into the breach.

President Johnson has been speaking recently in a way calculated to steel the nation for what may be a dramatic increase in U.S. involvement and possible mobilization of some National Guardsmen and reservists.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's mission to Viet Nam almost certainly will result in a boost in the 75,000 American servicemen now in Viet Nam or due there soon.

Total U.S. troop commitment could double before the end of the year. Nobody will hazard a guess as to how big the involvement will become. There have been estimates that 300,000 U.S. fighting men will be needed to prevent loss of South Viet Nam to the Communists.

This would put the Viet Nam war at about the level of the Korean War of the 1950s when a peak of 275,000 American soldiers and Marines and 47,000 airmen fought the North Koreans and Red Chinese.

But this would be an entirely different kind of war.

In Korea, there was a front and the enemy was met in conventional battle formation.

In Viet Nam, there is no front. The war has been likened to a cancer running through the entire country.

It is a mass of relatively small actions in which the enemy takes advantage of jungle cover to hit where he has local superiority in numbers, then fades back into the jungle.

U.S. firepower reportedly has caused the Viet Cong morale problems of their own.

But even the heavy weight of B52 intercontinental bombers dropping hundreds of tons of high explosives hasn't brought any appreciable change.

Soldiers and arms continue to infiltrate from North Viet Nam, despite heavy and almost daily air attacks on their routes.

The Communists have cut Viet Nam's roads and its single rail line so that the only way the South Vietnamese can move is by heavily protected — and often ambushed — convoys.

Good hair styles have movement and design. It starts, though, with a good hair cut and squeaky clean shampooing. After shampoo (left) try a new hair-setting aide, a protein-rich beer concentrate. Foam it on and then set hair. To place curlers (center) part hair on side. On left side place rollers to turn under toward left ear. On right side, rollers turn under to right ear. Curlers at crown and at back are rolled under, too. When dry, brush-up hair, then comb into side curve and soft crown (right) so popular now.

UNIT 27 BOARD
HIRES TEACHER,
FACULTY COMPLETE
ARENZVILLE — The Board of Education of School District 27 met in regular session at the school board office in Concord on July 14, with all members present. Also present were the superintendent, Leland Schnake, and the Unit secretary, Mrs. Bischoff.

Miss Dianne C. Meyer of Quincy was employed as a teacher in the fifth and sixth grades at the Chapin Grade School for the 1965-66 school year. This completes the teaching staff for the unit.

The Board voted to accept the low bid of the Cass County Service Co. and the Morgan County Service Co. to furnish LP gas to the Arenzville school and the Chapin Grade School, respectively.

Student accident insurance will be offered through the Bethalto Insurance Agency, Bethalto, Ill. The policy is underwritten by the Industrial Life Insurance Co. The board voted to offer a contract to Cyril D. Wardle of Chapin as a bus driver for Unit 27 during the coming school year.

An imprest fund was established for the payment of small bills, and Mrs. Bischoff was designated treasurer of the fund.

A resolution was passed to pay custodians, maintenance workers, and utility bills from the building fund for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1965, in accordance with the School Code of Illinois.

The transportation committee set July 19 as the time to inspect bus routes.

Mr. Schnake reported on the progress of summer maintenance in the unit, and stated that the school safety code survey is underway at the Arenzville school.

Approval was given for transporting a student to special education classes in Jacksonville during the 1965-66 school year.

MRS. R. J. LITTLE IS DELEGATE TO SORORITY CONCLAVE

Mrs. R. J. Little Jr. of Delta Nu chapter, Delta Theta Tau Sorority, Inc., will be the delegate to the 57th convention of the International Sorority at the Edgewater Beach Hotel in Chicago July 21 - 24.

The sorority, with more than 339 active chapters and alumnae associations, is the largest philanthropic organization of its kind in the nation. On the international level, and in the communities of the chapters, much money has been contributed since the sorority was founded in 1903 by five girls in Muncie, Ind.

The Delta Nu Chapter in this city has, as its philanthropy program, bought many needed items for Passavant hospital, Holy Cross hospital and Oaklawn sanatorium.

During the business meetings of the convention, the delegates will be given information concerning the philanthropy that has been done by the sorority internationally. Also they will vote upon the amounts to be expended for each project in the coming year and will elect new international officers.

Presiding at the four-day conclave in Chicago will be Miss Ruth Montgomery, president, of philanthropic organization of its kind in the nation. On the international level, and in the communities of the chapters, much money has been contributed since the sorority was founded in 1903 by five girls in Muncie, Ind.

Social Hygiene Classes—

Experts In Deaf Education Evaluate Year's Activities

Jacksonville Campus Site Of Workshop

The campus of the Illinois School for the Deaf in Jacksonville, usually a sedate setting during the summer school vacation, is humming with activity this week.

About two dozen experts in deaf education, child care and social hygiene are working vigorously to complete an evaluation of a federally-financed project begun last summer to develop a program of social hygiene for a residential school for the deaf.

Dr. Kenneth Mangan, ISD superintendent, said the aim is to construct a teaching program that will "develop a healthy attitude toward personal and social hygiene in the minds of the children and an understanding of how sex is a meaningful part of social living."

In achieving this objective, the school has had excellent cooperation and support from parents and religious advisors, as well as enthusiastic participation from its staff of educators and cottage parents.

Dr. Mangan said proper sex education for grade and high school students is a recognized universal need. Children are barraged with misinformation and misguided attitudes from a variety of sources — movies, television, magazines, billboards, and comic books, to say nothing of informal student conversations.

"Up until now, however, no one has tackled the problem of providing this instruction for deaf children whose handicap and limited language achievement negate the value of material used for children who have no hearing difficulties," Dr. Mangan commented.

"The non-handicapped student usually has daily personal contact with his parents, but by the time the average deaf child has reached 18, he has spent more than half of his life in a residential school. Thus, it is even more necessary that he be given his type of instruction. It will augment the information and guidance he receives from the home and the church and will help him develop attitudes that will lead to successful marriage and family relationships," Dr. Mangan said.

Frank B. Withrow, Ph. D., director of research at ISD, is in charge of the project which is being financed by a $28,000 grant from the U.S. Office of Education.

"Since we are interested in supporting rather than substituting for parental instruction, we first sought written permission from the parents for their children to participate in the classes," Dr. Withrow said. Clergymen, representing various denominations, participated in the program once a month to put the instruction in the proper perspective. They gave the children an insight into the moral values to be obtained from information on such subjects as family living, physical changes in youth, dating, courtship, marriage, reproduction and childbirth, etc.

The project began last summer when a group of teachers of the deaf were called together to develop a curriculum and materials for the teaching of sex education to elementary, junior high and senior high students. For six weeks, they reviewed teaching materials used for non-deaf children and adapted them to meet the needs of students without hearing. The group produced 8 mm. movies, filmstrips, charts and books and developed separate curricula for students at the three age levels.

For the younger children, the emphasis in the course was on the child's place in the family group. For adolescents, the focus was on changes that take place in the individual in the maturing process. For the senior high school students, instructors underscored the preparation necessary for a boy or girl to assume a responsible role in society. The technical material was presented in such a way that it would meet the needs of the groups at their appropriate age level.

The next phase was teaching the course during the 1964-65 school year. About 60 students took part. Groups were limited to 15 children, boys and girls, at each level, but two groups were established for the 18-20 year olds who would be leaving school at the end of the term.

Dr. Withrow said he had planned at first to separate boys and girls in the young adult groups when discussion centered on "sensitive" topics. But after discussing the plan with experts and noting the wholesome response from the students to the initial instruction, he decided that this might not be wise.

"Girls and boys have different problems in regard to dating, courtship and preparation for marriage," Dr. Withrow commented. "In order to form healthy attitudes, we felt they need to know something about each other's problems."

He noted that there had been a number of excellent direct results from the courses, as well as some important byproducts. Some students who had personal problems sought out social workers for guidance. One youth who had been planning to marry immediately upon graduation decided against it. He indicated that he needed more maturity and job experience before taking on the responsibilities of a husband and father.

"We also compared the knowledge and attitudes of our youngsters, after completing the course, with a similar group in another state school for the deaf which had no social hygiene instruction," Dr. Withrow said. He said an important aspect of the program was to give advance briefing to cottage parents and keep them informed of the goals of the study. They were then better equipped to provide counsel and evaluate student behavior in the dormitory setting.

In addition to talks given by the institution's professional staff, the briefing sessions included information and encouragement from clergymen, among them Msgr. Trafford P. Maher, S.J., director of the department of education at St. Louis University.

The current evaluation workshop, which runs through July 23, is the third phase of the four-part program. It will conclude this fall with a conference at ISD which will bring together representatives of schools for the deaf throughout the United States. They will be given a review of the experiment and an opportunity to launch a similar program in their institutions, using three publications resulting from the project: the curriculum, a manual of instruction, and an evaluation manual.

Out-of-state participants in the evaluation workshop include Kenneth Z. Altschuler, M.D., and John D. Rainer, M.D., both of New York Psychiatric Institute; Miss Helen Manley, director of the Greater St. Louis Health Association and an instructor of sex education at Washington University; and Robert Lisenky, Ph.D., vice-president of Albion College, Albion, Michigan.

Members of the ISD staff, besides those mentioned, who are participating include Edward Scott, assistant superintendent; Lawrence Huot, dean of students; Mrs. Dorothy Kaufmann, School psychologist; Mrs. Lorraine Kline, Mrs. Alois Wahl, William Shouse, Kenneth Wilson and George Zook, all teachers; and cottage parents Mrs. Lucille Cowhick, Mrs. Hazel Alred, Mrs. Irene Edwards, Mrs. Marguerite Whitmer, Mrs. Mitty Marshall, Theodore Zimmer and Robert Newport.

The Illinois School for the Deaf, founded in 1839 and now operated by the Department of Children and Family Services, is recognized as an outstanding instructional and research center. Enrollment is limited to students whose hearing is so impaired they are unable to make progress in public schools or special classes in the local school district. More than 450 grade and high school students from throughout the state were served during the past academic year.

The state pays for costs of education, room and board and routine medical and dental care. Parents or guardians assume responsibility for the child's clothing, laundry, transportation and spending money.

DR. KENNETH MANGAN, superintendent of the Illinois School for the Deaf, right, and Dr. Frank Withrow, director of the project, are shown looking over the huge volume of material developed in the program which may be the forerunner of a course used in schools for the deaf throughout the United States.

SUMMER is no "vacation" for the educators and other professional people engaged in evaluating the social hygiene course conducted this past year at the Illinois School for the Deaf.

CLERGYMEN of various faiths participated in the project. Rev. Orlin Anderson is shown here with social worker Charles Storslee getting the reaction of one of the students to the instruction. Rev. Anderson is pastor of the Christ Lutheran Church for the Deaf in Jacksonville.

DESIGNING visual aids which would help the deaf students understand the social hygiene instruction was an important part of the research project.

FORMER PATTERSON COUPLE'S DAUGHTER WED IN MINNESOTA

PATTERSON — Of interest to friends and relatives here was the July third wedding of Miss Mary Edna Willmington, daughter of former Patterson residents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Willmington of Quincy.

Miss Willmington and Walter LeRoy Hartfield of Crown, Minn., were married at the Calvary Baptist Church in Quincy by Rev. Harold Willmington of Minneapolis, brother of the bride.

Miss June Willmington of Chicago was her sister's maid of honor. The bride's other attendants were her sister-in-law, Mrs. Harold Willmington of Minneapolis, the bridegroom's sister-in-law, Mrs. Charles Hartfield of Anoka, Minn., and Mrs. Bert Sagawa of Minneapolis.

Charles Hartfield of Minneapolis was his brother's best man, Leroy Barrett of Minneapolis was groomsmen, and Gordon Willmington of Detroit, brother of the bride, and Mr. Sagawa were ushers.

Nieces of the bride, Colleen and Carla Willmington of Detroit, were flower girls.

The bride, wearing a floor length gown of Chantilly lace and carrying a cascade bouquet of white roses and stephanotis, was given in marriage by her father. Her attendants were dressed in sheath gowns of royal blue and carried a cascade arrangement of pompons and lemon leaves.

Following the wedding a reception was held in the church parlors.

The bride is a graduate of Senior High School in Quincy. After receiving her B.A. Degree from Northwestern college in Minneapolis, studied at the University of Minnesota and will do social work in Minneapolis.

The bridegroom is a graduate of St. Francis High School in Minneapolis and attended the Minneapolis School of Business and the University of Minnesota. He is a route salesman for a dry cleaning firm and is also engaged in real estate business.

The couple sailed the week following the wedding on the Queen Mary, arriving in Southampton July 12. They will travel through England, Belgium, Holland, Germany, France, Austria, Switzerland, Italy, Monaco, Spain and Portugal. They will leave for the States, August 31st from Lisbon, Portugal and will make their home in Minneapolis.

The bride is a great niece of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Hubbard of Patterson, and a granddaughter of Mr. A. L. Willmington, of White Hall.

Mother Earth Haven For Many In Viet Nam

By PETER ARNETT

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — For many of South Viet Nam's 14 million people, life underground has become as familiar a life as above it.

These are the Viet Cong, their supporters, and the helpless population caught in the cross-fire of war.

For them, mother earth has become a haven.

Tunnels, holes and trenches crisscross Viet Nam from North to South.

U.S. paratroopers looked in wonder at the maze-like trench systems and unending tunnels that snaked through the deep jungles of "D" zone, a Communist stronghold north of Saigon.

In virtually every village outside main cities and towns, the rural population has dug air raid shelters. These are sometimes large earthenware jars buried in the ground. More often they are just mudholes to which whole families flee during battles and air strikes.

The Viet Cong has been working on its trench and tunnel systems for 20 years. Using volunteer and forced labor, it has constructed intricate systems, some that stretch up to 20 miles.

A 25-mile-wide belt of land from the Cambodian border to the South China Sea above Saigon is particularly infested with entrenchments. Vietnamese and American troops operating there have found no answer to them. "What can we do?" a U.S. paratrooper officer asked. "These things stretch on forever." Explosives won't do the job, because the Viet Cong can easily dig them out again.

"We have our flamethrowers primed for action, but some of the entrances are so narrow and so deep the flames would blow back on us."

"We have vomit gas and tear gas available for use, but we are not permitted to use that."

A typical Viet Cong village tunnel system could have as many as 30 entrances. Some tunnels have been built as deep as 30 feet.

Soldiers lob phosphorous grenades into tunnels, but the Viet Cong use makeshift face masks for effective protection.

U.S. forces are using heavy bombs and artillery to blast out the entrenchments. A direct hit is needed to do much damage.

To remove the lacquer from a copper mold, place the mold in a solution of boiling water and baking soda and boil for a couple of minutes. Remove the mold from the water and peel off the lacquer.

Don't use detergent in that iron skillet because the detergent tends to remove the film of fat that helps to keep the pan from rusting.

Together Sixty Years

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Dunham

The sixtieth wedding anniversary for Mr. and Mrs. Scott Dunham, Jacksonville route two, falls on Saturday, July 24th. Miss Eliza Jane Hopper and Scott Dunham were married July 24, 1905 at Exeter. They moved from the Merritt community to their present home, near Woodson, in 1936. Mr. Dunham has farmed all of his life.

The Dunhams' are parents of three living children, Mrs. Chester Funk of Jacksonville; Clarence of Rock Falls and Mrs. Raymond O'Donnell of Salem, Ill. The youngest son, Scottie, lost his life in World War Two. There are 14 grandchildren and 38 great grandchildren.

No special celebration is planned but the couple would appreciate hearing from friends and relatives.

Ten Matches Held In Senior Singles

Ten matches in the Senior Men's singles got the Senior Division of the JOURNAL COURIER Jacksonville City Championship Tennis Tournament underway Saturday, with some top-notch amateur tennis displayed.

Three quarterfinal singles matches plus four doubles in the Men's class, and two singles matches in the Senior Women's division will be held today at the new MacMurray College courts on Hardin Avenue.

Two preliminary matches for the two open herths opened the day's play at 9 p.m. Saturday. Dick Herrin downed Dan Walker, 6-2, 6-3, and Mick Cochran whipped Chip Sutphen, 6-2, 6-3.

Three more matches were held at 1 p.m., with Dick Casler whipping Cochran, 6-3, 6-4; John Wellman nipping Don Houser, 3-6, 6-1, 6-1; and Tom Christensen beating Bob Bonjean, 6-1, 6-0. Bill Kaufmann won by forfeit over Don Benson in another scheduled match.

The final four matches of the day were held at 3 p.m., with Manuel Velasco topping Connie Hanley, 6-0, 6-1; Bob Hamm taking Jerry McArthur, 6-0, 6-0; Bob Bradney whipping John Hutchens, 6-1, 6-2; and Bill Wall edging Herrin, 6-0, 6-8, 6-2.

One quarterfinal match was held Saturday with Bradney eliminating Wall, 6-0, 3-6, 7-5, in one of the closer matches of the day.

Today's lineup in the Men's quarterfinal singles has Velasco meeting Hamm, Kaufmann facing Casler and Wellman taking on Christison, all at 1 p.m.

The semifinals in the class will be staged next Saturday at 1 p.m., and the finals at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Batters Get Lopez Lingo In A Hurry

LOS ANGELES (NEA) — Marcelino Lopez has developed his English as well as his fast ball and the combination is making him one of the top rookies in the American League this season.

At the beginning, though, in 1960, things weren't quite so easy—particularly with the English language.

Marcelino Lopez

"It cost me several games," the 21-year-old Cuban left-hander said. "I remember one time the bases were loaded and the batter hit a high pop-up near home plate. I didn't speak very good then, and I yell, 'I got it.' But I was pointing to the catcher. The ball fell and all three runners scored. That was the game."

Lopez was only 15 when he signed his first contract and he didn't receive any bonus money. "Only the money to buy a suitcase and a pair of baseball shoes," he said.

He was in the Phillies organization until the past off-season, when Philadelphia dealt him to the Angels as payment for the Vic Power deal last September. Since he had pitched in only four major league games before this season, the Angels weren't sure if he would stick after spring training.

His explanation for the success sounds quite basic:

"Anyone with good stuff who can get the ball over the plate can pitch in the major leagues." He said it in plain and simple English.

Little League

The Yanks scored in every inning in outlasting the Tigers in a 16-13 slugfest victory in the final Little League game of the regular season.

The Yanks scored three in the first, four in the second and five in the third to lead 12-3 at that point. The Tigers got back in the game with some heavy scoring of their own in the late innings but fell short at the end.

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies bombed Cincinnati pitchers for 22 hits Saturday, including a grand slam homer by Johnny Callison, and trounced the Reds 14-7.

The loss dropped Cincinnati out of the National League lead, one-half game behind the Los Angeles Dodgers, who played Chicago at night.

Johnny Briggs drove in five Phillies runs with a homer, two singles and a sacrifice fly. Pat Corrales had four hits for the winners, while John Herrnstein added a homer and two singles.

Philadelphia, in its biggest offensive display of the year, came up with the crusher in the six-run fourth inning. Herrnstein led off with his homer and Callison ripped his bases-loaded blow off Jim O'Toole in that inning.

Home runs — Philadelphia, Briggs (2), Herrnstein (1), Callison (19).

Marichal Posts 15th Victory In 7-0 Five-Hitter

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco's Juan Marichal posted his 15th victory and eighth shutout of the season Saturday, stopping Houston on five hits in the Giants' 7-0 victory.

Marichal, who has lost seven games, surrendered three singles to Bob Lillis.

Lillis and Rusty Staub, who doubled, combined forces in the eighth inning to put Marichal in his only serious jam, placing men on second and third with one out. But the Giants' right-hander got Joe Morgan to foul out and Lee Maye to ground out, ending the threat.

Dick Farrell, tagged for three runs in the first inning, took the loss. He is 7-3.

Willie Mays did not play for the Giants. He was rested for the eighth time this season. It was the first game the Giants won this year without the center fielder.

Wild Pitch Lets Braves Score 6-5 Win Over Bucs

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Felipe Alou raced home with the winning run on Bob Veale's bases-loaded wild pitch in the ninth inning, giving Milwaukee a 6-5 triumph over Pittsburgh Saturday.

Bob Sadowski pitched 7 1-3 innings of hitless ball for the Braves, but the Pirates erupted for four runs in the eighth inning and took a 5-4 lead. The Braves, however, rallied for two runs in the ninth.

Woody Woodward walked and reached second when Jose Pagan fumbled Mike de la Hoz' grounder for an error. Alou hit into a force play, but Frank Bolling followed with a ground rule double that drove in Woodward with the tying run and put Alou at third.

Veale relieved Frank Carpin and walked Hank Aaron intentionally before unloading the decisive wild pitch.

Reaching for a return is Dick Herrin in his 6-2, 6-3 loss to Bill Wall in the opening round. Action continues this afternoon, both in singles and doubles, and finishes next weekend.

MANUEL VELASCO maneuvers near the net on a classy return during his 6-0, 6-1 singles win over Connie Hanley. Velasco, JHS tennis mentor, is considered a strong threat for the singles title.

BOB BRADNEY won two matches Saturday, a 6-1, 6-2 edge over John Hutchens in the first round and a close 6-0, 3-6, 7-5 count over Bill Wall in a quarterfinal match.

Kansas City Whips Twins 3rd In Row 5-4

MINNEAPOLIS — ST. PAUL (AP) — Ed Charles, a pinch hitter for a pinch hitter drove in Rene Lachemann with a ninth-inning sacrifice fly, lifting the Kansas City Athletics to their third straight victory over the Minnesota Twins 5-4 Saturday.

Tom Reynolds led off the ninth with a single, but Lachemann forced him at second. Al Worthington then loaded the bases on walks to Mike Hershberger and Johnny Blanchard, and Bill Bryan was sent to bat for pitcher Don Mossi.

But when Bill Pleis replaced Worthington, Charles batted for Bryan and flied deep to Jimmie Hall in center field, driving in Lachemann.

The Athletics rallied from a 4-0 deficit to tie the game on home runs, two by Dick Green and one by Ken Harrelson. Kansas City 000 000 221-5 6 0

CITY POWER PLAYS TODAY

The Jacksonville City Power baseball nine travels to Taylorville for a Little Eight League doubleheader today, trying to break a four-game losing string.

City Power whipped Taylorville at Nichols Park earlier in the year, 8-7, in ten innings. Since that time Jacksonville has won only one of five outings and holds a 2-5 mark in the league.

Bob Gay and Fred Curtis will be the probable starters for Jacksonville on the mound today, with Gordon Elmore first in relief.

The team will leave from the Drexel at 11:45 today.

Finals Today In Nichols Park Open

Howard Curtis will be aiming for his third consecutive Nichols Park Open Championship today when he meets Mickey Little in a 36-hole match play final at the park. Tee off times are scheduled for 9 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

The match marks the second time that Curtis and Little have met in the annual city classic which dates back to the early 1920's. Last year, Curtis eliminated the challenger in the semi-final round six up with five holes remaining, before going on to defeat JHS coach Jim Buckley in the finals. The champion also copped the crown from Buckley in the 1963 tourney.

Prospects for a tight finish are expected as both men have displayed excellent form throughout the three-week tournament that started with a tough field of 24 entrants.

Curtis, a May graduate of MacMurray College who will be entering the U. of I. Law School in the fall, moved into the final bracket by downing K. L. "Spike" Wilson eight up. Little gained his berth with a two up margin over Jerry Walz.

NEW YORK (AP) — Staunchness, claimed less than two months ago for $25,000, moved up among the elite of the 3-year-old division Saturday with victory in the 1¼ miles of the $82,150 Dwyer Stakes at Aqueduct.

Under the lash of Bobby Ussery's whip, the son of Bold Ruler-Tiny Request from Joseph Brunetti's Red Oak Stable, hit the finish line four lengths in front of another outsider — Dorothy Henderson's Duc de Great.

Mrs. Ben Cohen's Hail to All, winner of the Jersey Derby and Belmont Stakes, staged his usual strong stretch drive, but there was too much ground to make up and he had to be content with third, a head back of Duc de Great.

Then came Sette Bello, followed by...

By BUFORD GREEN

The NCAA Committee on Sports Injuries and Safety has some most interesting observations and suggestions on injuries in sports to report in NCAA Yearbook just released.

This committee first begun keeping statistics and undertaking studies concerning injuries, particularly in football, in 1960 and did the same again in 1962. These have been compared to studies compiled during the past football season.

The data reported was gathered from a wide distribution of colleges and universities with the cooperation of trainers and doctors. Careful daily records were kept by the trainers and team physicians in each co-operating school.

The exact same pattern in the questionnaires were used in 1964 as in previous studies. The object of the studies was an attempt to find ways and means and methods to reduce the incidence of injury in football.

Although these statistics and suggestions are geared to football in colleges and universities, it can be safely assumed that fairly similar patterns would hold true for high school sports.

The main part of the questionnaire was inquiring about injuries on the neck, head and face, the shoulder girdle, the pelvic region and the lower extremities. The committee's resume included such items as:

The total number of injuries reported in 1958-59 averaged about 36 per school. The total number of injuries reported in 1962 averaged about 23 per school. The total number of injuries reported in 1964 averaged about 27 per school. Something of a significant drop since the committee undertook such studies.

Another item points out the fact that from the third week on down to the end of the season the injury incidence in all cases receded to eight per cent in the fourth week on down to one per cent in the fourteenth and fifteenth week of football.

The fact that these averages of all injuries reported, spanning a period of seven years, are so high for the first three weeks of practice seems to emphasize the need for longer conditioning periods before hard hitting starts on an all year long program of conditioning.

Still another aspect shows that 33% of all injuries during a game occur in the third quarter, pointing out the need for a better warm-up between halves.

The ends, tackles, guards and halfbacks are more subject to injury, while the quarterbacks, centers, fullbacks, linebackers and safety men are least susceptible. This has been consistent in all three studies.

Forty-five per cent of all injuries occur during game conditions, while 37% occur during scrimmage, and 19% during fundamental drills.

It matters not whether playing on offense or defense. Injuries consistently evenly divided, almost on the nose. Whether blocking or being blocked, tackling or being tackled, injuries each instance are remarkably consistent and equal. The "pile up" is close behind as a culprit.

The knee and ankle lead the parade of all the injuries that occur and are reported. Approximately 40% of all injuries occur to these two areas, with the knee slightly in the lead.

Orthopedic specialists insist the biggest culprit in threatening this weakest of joints, the knee, as well as the ankle, is the cleat. They further state these joints can be strengthened through exercises and recommended keeping on the toes at all times and keeping the feet moving.

The shoulder and neck are in third place in all three studies, with the clavicular joint being most frequently injured.

Although the head and face are in third place, there is a 10 per cent increase in injury to the head. The committee suggests this may be due to the recent teaching of leading with the head in blocking and tackling.

Of the teeth lost the results of all reported injuries to teeth show that from 1962 to 1964 there has been most significant drops in the number of teeth

The committee's reports concludes with several observations or comments and suggestions, including:

1. Nowhere in our data do we find a potent finger of blame pointed at equipment. On the contrary, the equipment manufacturers have been complimented many times on their continuing efforts in research in introducing the finest in protection for the athlete in football.

2. With a last remark concerning equipment, our committee once again strongly stresses and recommends that coaches and all those responsible for equipment along with the trainers and doctors continue to place increasing emphasis on the proper fit and proper wearing of equipment; that all equipment be checked frequently by those responsible to see that it continues to fit and is worn properly; and finally that research by all interested parties be continued in improving the effectiveness of protective equipment of all types.

3. Our present way of life does not tend to strengthen the moving parts of our body. The committee continues to emphasize the necessity of developing and using a well-designed program of resistant exercises.

These programs should be designed to increase the size and strength of the musculature of the neck and shoulder as well as the joints of the knee and ankle. These programs must be designed on a 12-month basis of usage, under supervision.

Nearly $400,000 In Purses Given At State Fair

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Franklin H. Rust, manager of the Illinois State Fair, today said that approximately $400,000 will be offered in purses during the harness race meeting starting August 13 and continuing for six days through August 19.

The biggest single day of racing will be Monday, August 16 when more than $175,000 will be distributed in the Illinois State Fair Colt Stakes.

Another major day will be Wednesday, August 18 when about $100,000 in purses will bring out top two and three year old Grand Circuit horses.

Illinois through its rich colt stakes program has been the leader in advancing State Fair colt racing nationally. New York and Ohio now developing their programs have studied the Illinois format.

The complete list of eligibles for the colt stakes of August 16 will not be set until final payments have been made 48 hours prior to the race. Trophies for these races are named for Governor Otto Kerner, (2-year-old pacers), Robert M. Schneider, Director of Agriculture, (2-year-old trot), L. Gov. Samuel H. Shapiro, (3-year-old pacers), and Franklin H. Rust, (3-year-old trotters).

In the Grand Circuit racing of August 18 two year old pacers will compete for the Charles Lacy Memorial Trophy in the Little Pat Stake. Two year old trotters will compete for the Col. E. J. Baker Memorial Trophy in the Greyhound Stake. Three year old pacers will battle for the H. J. Schmoeger Trophy and three year old trotters will vie for the E. V. Champion Trophy

MacKenzie Planning Novel On Baseball

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK — (NEA) — Ken MacKenzie, part realist, part romanticist, part individualist, is going to write the great American baseball novel.

His credentials: A Yale degree and nine years of baseball spent in nine different cities.

Ken MacKenzie is a relief pitcher. This year he's with the Houston Astros. Before that it was the San Francisco Giants, the St. Louis Cardinals, the New York Mets and the Milwaukee Braves.

He hopes to stay away from the Cincinnati Reds and Chicago White Sox because their management does not particularly care for relief pitchers who write.

But Ken MacKenzie, the realist, has no plans to become another Jim Brosnan.

"Remember," he said, "I'm going to write a novel. Not a diary of a season like Jim. Anyway, I'm going to write it after I'm out of baseball."

"Even so, the only reason Broz got in trouble was because he fought a thing on principle. According to the uniform players contract, if you publish during the season, it must be approved by the club. He wanted to have the clause deleted."

Ken MacKenzie

"Most ballplayers, unless they're superstars, can't afford that kind of individualism. In my situation I have to sort of blend into the paneling and get along with everyone or I could lose my job."

MacKenzie's position with the Astros isn't exactly as solid as the Rock of Gibraltar.

He's a 31-year-old lefthander who had a lifetime major league record of 8-7 with a 5.03 ERA before this season. With a team like Houston, building strictly for the future, he certainly is expendable.

So there is nothing to do but behave.

"If you don't," MacKenzie said, smiling, "it spoils the image. That's a big thing in baseball now. We have become security conscious."

"But you can't just say this is the case in baseball. The whole attitude of the country has changed. Everyone says how much fun baseball was in the '20s and '30s compared with today. But look at the attitude of the country then — everyone had that 'hell for leather' feeling."

The plot of MacKenzie's novel

Thomas-Allen Fracas May Cause Serious Problems For Phillies

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
PHILADELPHIA — (NEA) —

Comedians will have to revise their jokes about Philadelphia now because Richie Allen has proved there is something to do here on weekends—watch the Phillies take batting practice.

Allen may not realize it, but he changed the baseball habits of thousands of Philadelphians when he took a punch at teammate Frank Thomas during a recent practice session.

Thomas swung back—with a bat—and now the fans are showing up at Connie Mack Stadium, sans dinner, two hours before game time just to watch the by-play around the batting cage.

It would be a perfect spot for Bill Veck. If he owned the Phillies, he'd charge separate admission for the game and batting practice.

Actually the fight was a serious incident that cost one man a job. As the season progresses it could cost a team the pennant because Frank Thomas is an experienced right-handed hitter, a handy asset during a pennant drive.

Publicly, the Thomas-Allen incident is a forgotten thing with the Phillies. That's because censorship was imposed on the entire squad. Just how much has been forgotten privately is the bigger question.

It's the same with last year's collapse. Manager Gene Mauch set the example during spring training when he refused to answer any questions on the subject.

The players have reacted that way, too. Their feelings are hidden. But you can't help

Mauch Gives Rojas Best Compliment

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
PHILADELPHIA — (NEA) —

Most of the chances came in meaningless situations in the late innings as a pinch-runner, a defensive replacement and sometimes—though rarely—as a pinch-hitter.

But to Cookie Rojas they meant existence, so the effort was always there despite the situation.

Cookie Rojas

It took two and a half years before someone finally noticed Rojas and when Gene Mauch did, he uncovered a ballplayer who is as valuable to the Philadelphia Phillies as Richie Allen or Johnny Callison.

Rojas' value comes from his versatility because he is one of those rare finds who can play more than one position—all well. Since coming to the major leagues with Cincinnati in 1962, he has played everywhere except first base and pitcher.

"When you sign a contract," he said, "they don't tell you where they want you to play."

Rojas got his first real chance last season when Tony Gonzalez, the Phils' centerfielder, had eye trouble that forced him from the lineup.

Mauch called on Cookie, kept him in the lineup and suddenly he had a consistent .300 hitter. "Then Tony Taylor got hurt," Rojas said, "and I went in to play second base. I was in the lineup almost every day for two and a half months."

He wound up hitting .291 last season in 109 games, but the success could not erase the Bill Rigney, who got the season's first vote of confidence from his Los Angeles Angel bosses, can blame it all on the Washington Senators. "They," admits Rigney, "have been the best looking team in the league this year — against us." But Rig still picks Chicago as the team to beat in the American League — "if Pete Ward can stay healthy."

Rigney has also changed his evaluation of the American League since he came over in 1961 to head the expansion team. "I thought there were more good, solid young ball players in the National League then," he says. "Now we're starting to get them — like Tony Oliva, Jim Fregosi of our club, Max Alvis."

The image of the racing driver has gone up so much that he's even being used in television commercials. Authority for this is Chuck Barnes, who is to the sparkplug set what Mark McCormack is to golf. Chuck handles A. J. Foyt, Parnelli Jones, Roger Ward and Fred Lorenzen, and is angling to nab Mario Andretti, a young hot shot. "Advertisers used to stay away," says Chuck, "because they figured they were still in black leather jackets. Now you've got Parnelli and Arnold Palmer in a soft drink commercial. And Roger has done the shaving bit. But they still shy away sometimes because there's always the risk, they figure, of a fellow getting killed."

And sometimes Chuck has to buck the dedication of his unique breed of performers. Foyt turned down $1,500 just to show his face in Minneapolis to race in a sprint at Terre Haute, Ind., that paid only $500 to the winner.

Paul Christman, now a television performer, is happy there weren't sideline cameras to pick up tidbits when he was at the time I felt it was now or never. Back home in Miami, the only thing to do was rest, and during this time the 1963 Sullivan Award winner figured out some changes he'd make if he vaulted again.

The most important involved shifting his lower hand. "I'm trying to hold my hands closer together now," he said. "It gets you a longer and smoother swing. I had been vaulting the hard way before. My hands always were 2½ feet apart. Now they are only about a foot and a half apart."

"I'm making this shift before the pole goes into the box. It's going to help me because it allows your hips to elevate higher and it keeps you on the pole longer."

"I just want to concentrate on that, a few other things and I want to stay healthy. Then maybe I'll know more about 1968."

The lure of a gold medal is a powerful thing.

John Pennel

"During the time I laid off," Pennel said, "I would be looking through photographs or movies of my vaults and then I would start making some drawings that I felt would improve my style. Then my back started getting better and I decided to give it another try."

With just a few weeks practice, Pennel cleared 17 feet to win the National Championships at San Diego in June and this earned him a spot on the U.S. team that meets the Russians in Kiev July 31-Aug. 1.

"I was really surprised with my performance at San Diego," Pennel said, "but I'm not setting any goals. Right now I'm not even sure if I'll continue vaulting for the next Olympics."

Pennel's problem, since he started vaulting, has been a slipped disc—first on the left side and now his right side.

"It would be all right, though," he said "as long as I kept my back loose and warm. The pain didn't come during the actual vault. It was afterwards."

"What was so disappointing about the Olympics was that I was feeling great and vaulting at my best until about two and a half weeks before the games started."

"Then I hurt my back again and there were times during those weeks when I couldn't even walk. I took drugs so I would be able to run, but the best I could do was half speed."

Between you'n'me, the Chicago Cardinals. He remembers a season finale against the Los Angeles Rams, who needed only a tie to beat the Chicago Bears for the Western Division title. The Cards, trailing in the last quarter by three, moved to the Ram 30-yard line. The clock was stopped with one second to go, and Pat Harder, a fine field goal kicker, was in the game. Christman trotted over to coach Buddy Parker on the sidelines to see if he'd settle for the tie. "Go for the touchdown," ordered Parker, "or Halas (coach George Halas of the Bears) will say we tried to throw the championship to the Rams."

There's a Kansas City, Kan., high school kid who attracted Devine attention. Dan Sharp, third scholastically in a senior class of more than 500, was wanted by Dan Devine of Missouri for football. Bing Devine of the New York Mets liked his baseball potential but was dissuaded by the competition (the Phillies finally drafted the kid).

The Milwaukee Braves have dispensed with the old ritual of infield practice before a game. Manager Bobby Bragan figures it gives them 20 per cent more hitting time on the road — 50 minutes instead of 40 — that's an area Bragan likes to stress because he feels he has the best slugging team in baseball.

Now Rocky Marciano says the best way to prevent travesties like the Clay-Liston no-count bout in Lewiston is to have a 15-second knockout rule in boxing.

Between you'n'me, when the full story of the collapse of the National and American football league merger talks comes out, it'll show an AFL owner reneged on an agreement reached in which the younger league would pay a $12 million indemnity as the cost for peace. . . .

CLEVELAND (AP) — Pedro Gonzalez rapped a three-run triple and Leon Wagner hit a two-run homer as the second-place Cleveland Indians defeated the Boston Red Sox 8-5 Saturday night.

The Indians' third straight victory, coupled with Kansas City's 5-4 victory over Minnesota, narrowed the Twins' first-place margin to three games.

Gonzalez' big blow capped a five-run sixth inning for the Indians and nullified Felix Mantilla's three-run homer in the same inning. Mantilla's homer his 13th, scored Lenny Green and Carl Yastrzemski, who had walked.

Earl Wilson gave up three straight hits in the sixth and was replaced after he walked Rocky Colavito on four pitches to force in the first Indian run. Fred Whitfield drove in another with a sacrifice fly.

Rico Petrocelli then bobbled Joe Azcue's grounder, and the bases were loaded again with two out when Gonzalez tagged his triple.

Wagner hit his 17th homer off Jay Ritchie in the seventh with a mate aboard. Larry Brown doubled home the final Cleveland run in the eighth.

Boston 000 003 020—5 8 2 Cleveland 000 005 21X—8 9 1 Wilson, Earley (6), Heffner (6), Ritchie (7), Bennett (7) and Tillman; Tiant, Bell (7), McMahon (8) and Azcue. W — Tiant (8-3). L—Wilson (6-7).

Home runs — Boston, Mantilla (13). Cleveland, Wagner (17).

PITTSBURGH, PA. (AP) — Arne Dokka, 21-year-old business and finance student from Studio City, Calif., crushed 24-year-old Leo Zampedro of Warren, Ohio, 10 and 9, Saturday and won the Publix Golf Championship by the biggest victory margin in its 40-year history.

Dokka, a native of Norway who reached the semifinals last year, was 6-up after the first 18 holes of the 36-hole match final over the parched par 36-35-71 North Park Golf Course.

He won the 20th, 23rd, 25th, 26th with pars and halved the 27th as the putting and iron play that carried Zampedro past tournament medalist Stan Poposil fell apart.

Zampedro, husky six-foot former football fullback from Colorado State, won only three holes in 27. He made a game try to come back in the afternoon, chopping against the pin to win the 19th hole with a birdie.

But Dokka's steady play was too much.

The Californian shot a one-under-par 70 in the morning to tie a competitive record for the course, stretched out from 6,518 to 6,781 yards for the tournament.

Dokka said he was setting his sights on the Western Amateur championship later this month.

Zampedro was making his first appearance in a major tournament. He finished far back last year in the Ohio State Publix which like this event is open only to public course play-

Yankees Rally For 4 In 9th For 5-4 Victory

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Pepitone, back in action after a fine and one-game benching, singled across the winning run as the New York Yankees rallied for four runs in the ninth inning and beat Washington 5-4 Saturday.

The Yanks raked Senator reliever Ron Kline for four straight hits after he took over for starter Buster Narum with two on and one out. Clete Boyer started the uprising with a single off Narum. Then with one out, Hector Lopez batted for pitcher Gil Blanco and walked.

Bobby Richardson and Tony Kubek singled — the fourth hit of the game for each — making it 4-2, and Mickey Mantle tied it with a two-run ground rule double. Pepitone then lined a shot down the first base line for his first hit in 17 times at bat.

Washington 000 011 000—4 11 0 New York 100 000 004—5 13 0 Narum, Kline (9) and Zimmerman; Ford, Ramos (5), Brennen (6), Hamilton (6), Blanco (8) and Howard. W — Blanco (1-1). L—Kline (4-2).

CHICAGO (AP) — Southpaw Tommy John pitched the Chicago White Sox to their fourth straight victory Saturday, a 5-2 decision over the Los Angeles Angels.

John, recording his eighth victory in 11 decisions, limited the Angels to five hits, including a two-run homer by Bobby Knoop in the second inning.

Knoop's blow sent center fielder Ken Berry crashing into the wall. Berry, who was carried off the field on a stretcher, suffered a gash over his left eye which required four stitches.

Knoop's homer gave the Angels a temporary lead which Floyd Robinson erased. Robinson delivered a two-run, two-out single in the second which put the White Sox ahead to stay. Chicago added a pair of runs in the seventh on a run-scoring single by Tommy McCraw and a sacrifice fly by Moose Skowron.

Bellino: A Rookie At Old Age Of 27

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
BOSTON — (NEA) — Four years ago Joe Bellino took a pair of ensign's epaulets and a reputation with him from the United States Naval Academy.

He was the greatest running back in Navy football history, won the Heisman Trophy and was a consensus All-American.

But when he walked off that stage on graduation day 1961, the next four years belonged to the U.S. Navy.

Now Joe Bellino, formerly of Winchester, Mass., is property of the Boston Patriots of the American Football League and quite naturally everyone is wondering if the 5-9, 187-pounder can shake of the years of football inactivity to make a comeback.

"I always had the desire to play pro football," Bellino said, "and although it wasn't my ultimate goal four years ago, I did keep it very much in mind during my career. Then six months ago I decided to give it a try."

"He's not going to step right in and take over, that's sure," said former Navy coach Wayne Hardin. "But I'm positive he'll make his presence felt."

"We've communicated over the years and I know he has been in excellent shape. His weight is below 190 which would be a good figure for him as a pro."

"As for his speed... well I don't think a boy loses something like that, especially if he has been working out like Joe."

"His best position in the pros might be as a flanker because he has great hands and exceptional maneuverability. But until he really gets settled he can be used on kickoff and punt returns, where they would really utilize his speed."

"He also could be an effective running back because he always is a threat on the run."

Morgan County Fair Opens Five-Day Run Tuesday, August 3

Jacksonville area residents will have an opportunity to visit one of the largest Morgan County Agricultural Junior Fairs in several years as the gates to the west side fairgrounds open at 8 o'clock Tuesday, August 3.

Many top-notch events will be presented before the grandstand audience each afternoon and evening.

A record number of classes will be judged in almost every category a person could think of—and more too!

4-H Federation Day

Tuesday, August 3, will be 4-H Federation Day. All rides at the carnival, with a few exceptions, will be 15-cents day and night.

The afternoon program before the grandstand will feature old-fashioned horse pulling contests starting at 2 o'clock. Entrants from throughout Illinois and a few from Iowa and Missouri are scheduled to appear for the prize money.

The society horse show will start at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, with the first portion of the Miss Morgan County Fair Queen contest set 7:30 p.m. The final portion of the contest will be run off at 9:30 in the evening.

Children's Day

Wednesday, Aug. 4, will be children's day. An afternoon program at the 4-H building will feature a style show and foods and flowers demonstrations. A dance recital by Hiatt Dance Studio is tentatively set for 3:30 p.m.

The first heats of the harness racing card will start at 5:30 p.m. and the second heat at 6:45 p.m. The society horse show will begin at 8 p.m. A pig scramble will be held between classes of the horse show.

Jacksonville Day

Special carnival ride prices will be in effect from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Thursday, annual observance of Jacksonville Day at the fairgrounds.

Harness racing will start at 5:30 p.m. An industrial and civic parade will be held at 4 p.m. before the grandstand audience.

The final stake night society horse show will be held at 8 p.m. followed by a giant fireworks display.

Farmers' Day

Friday, Aug. 6, will be farmers' day at the fairgrounds. The annual tractor pull contest will start at 12:30 p.m. and may include special classes with women drivers this year.

The annual western horse show will be presented at 7 o'clock in the evening.

Thrill Day

Thrill day, Saturday, Aug. 7, will be the annual 4-H auction of champion livestock, 4-H horse show, in the afternoon. The evening program will include an antique and new car parade, followed by an auto thrill show featuring all women drivers.

Livestock judging will be handled.

Lightning Hits 2 White Hall Homes, Woman

WHITE HALL — Firemen responded to two calls to local homes which had been struck by lightning last week.

The first summons was Thursday morning to the residence of Mrs. Carrie Hubbard. Mrs. Hubbard had been away from her home and upon return was told by members of the family they smelled smoke. Firemen and repair men from the electric company responded. They determined lightning had damaged wiring at the back part of the home, also damaging the floor and splicing a cable. The smell came from smoldering floor boards and the electrical cable.

The early morning thunderstorm had been severe and a transformer in the same neighborhood was put out of service and several homes were without electricity from 4:30 to 8 a.m.

Friday another severe storm struck the area. Lightning struck a birdhouse adjacent to the Charles DeShazer home on South Main street. The lightning traveled down the birdhouse and into the DeShazer home, striking Mrs. DeShazer who was having breakfast with her son. A spoon was knocked from her hand and she fell from her chair. A local physician treated her for shock, but no serious injury was believed suffered.

Franklin 1884-1897 Lives Again

A LOOK AT THE PAST — Mrs. James Newell and two of her sons, (l-r) Jim, 15, and Larry, 13, look at the book containing the minutes of the Franklin village board which covers 13 years. Jim discovered the book in the ceiling of the old livery stable, before it was torn down several weeks ago.

Minutes Book Find Links Past

By ART HARRIS

When Jim Newell, 15, reached into a space between floors in the old livery stable a few weeks ago, he pulled out a plum.

What Jim had found was the minutes book from the Franklin town, and village board meetings for 13 years.

The James Newells of Franklin had purchased the old livery stable and property, and within the past month have completed razing the structure, located to the north of the park across the street.

His mother, an antique hunter, had spied an old glass bottle and sent Jim, one of her three sons, climbing up to investigate, hoping to add to her collection.

The book was in a space between the ceiling of the first floor and the floor of the loft, and there was an old whiskey bottle in the same niche.

How the book got there, or why it was there is unknown, but the Newells treasure it as if it were a family heirloom.

During those 13 years several boards took many strides in improving the community.

Legislation of Times — Although some of their actions now might seem insignificant to the 20th century man, to a resident of Franklin their legislation was an effect of the late 19th century.

It was not until 1895 that reference was made of enlarging the park.

At the same meeting, in October of that year, when the park expansion passed 108-42, the village board also made a motion "relating to the erection and operation of an electric light and power plant."

A year later, the first board committees were mentioned and included those for streets and alleys, finance, and building.

Finances Critical — Town finances were also a critical situation the board was faced with upon several occasions. At one meeting, April 3, 1888, "the treasurer report read reporting a balance of .03 on hand."

A liquor tax, which was one of the most lucrative to the town, realized from $800 to $1000 during those years, but the licensing of saloons was a constant battle.

Another tax that was suggested before the book closed in 1897 was for the licensing of teamsters.

At the November 2 meeting, "A petition from J. A. Groves asking the village board to impose a tax of 50cts per month on teamsters to be voted at the next regular meeting."

The word must have leaked out and spread to the farmers because there was no word concerning the proposed ordinance at the next meeting.

Bootleggers were a constant headache to the board, and on one occasion, upon the petition presented by Methodist preacher H. M. Hamill, even the drugist was investigated.

It seems as though 754 "promiscuous prescriptions," as Rev. Hamill referred to them, for intoxicants received had been filled.

LEAVES FOR CALIFORNIA — CARROLLTON — Miss Dianne Whitling, who has been spending some time here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morse Whitling, left Friday for Riverside, California where she will be a member of the faculty at California School for the Deaf.

Miss Whitling formerly taught at the School for the Deaf in Jacksonville.

Former Pastor Speaks — TODAY AT BETHEL AME — Reverend Kelsey J. Siddall of Springfield, former pastor of Bethel A.M.E. church, will be guest speaker during services at the church this morning. Reverend G. W. Brewer of Alton, presiding elder of Springfield District A.M.E. churches, will also be present. The public is welcome to attend the service.

Mrs. Sarah Frances Stockton — Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah Frances Stockton will be conducted at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday from Gilham-Buchanan Funeral Home. Reverend William J. Boston will officiate and burial will be in Yatesville cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7-9 p.m. Monday.

Oliver F. White — ROODHOUSE — Funeral services for Oliver F. White will be conducted at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Mackey Funeral Home, Roodhouse. Burial will be in White Hall cemetery.

The family will meet friends at the funeral home from 7-9 p.m. Monday.

Granite City Gal — QUINCY, Ill. (AP) — Kathleen Oros, a 20-year-old, brown eyed beauty from Granite City, was selected Saturday night as Miss Illinois.

Miss Oros, who will represent the state at the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City, N.J., was selected from an original field of 34 girls representing geographic areas of Illinois.

The first runner-up was Sandra Anne Wolfeld, 18, of Wheaton, representing Fox Valley.

The other three finalists were Katherine R. True, 18, representing Elgin; Mary Florence Brady, 18, of Pontiac, representing Livingston County, and Mary Sydney Coose, 18, representing Belleville.

The five were selected from 10 finalists named earlier in the evening.

Miss Oros, 5 feet 7 and 120 pounds, will be a junior this fall at Eastern Illinois University at Charleston. She is majoring in voice and aspires to be an actress.

Ten finalists were selected Saturday night in the Miss Illinois Pageant from the original field of 34.

The girls are Karen Lee Rubins, 20, of Markham, representing Decatur; Kathleen Oros, 20, representing Granite City; Susan Marie Barnes, 19, of Esmond, representing Rochelle; Holly Ann Alexander, 20, representing Palatine;

Susan Joy Braceville, 19, of Danville, representing Vermilion County; Mary Sydney Coose, 18, representing Belleville; Mary Katherine McKinnis, 21, of Grafton, representing Jersey County;

Katherine R. True, 18, representing Elgin; Sandra Anne Wolfeld, 18, of Wheaton, representing Fox Valley; and Mary Florence Brady, 18, of Pontiac, representing Livingston County.

TWO VALUABLE HEARING AIDS MISSING IN HOME — JERSEYVILLE — The loss of two hearing aids valued at $592.00 was reported Friday morning to the office of Sheriff Paul Miller by Mrs. Maudie (Bud) Ritchey Jr. of the Jersey Township Panhandle locality.

Mrs. Ritchey reported that she first discovered the loss of the hearing aids July 14th. They had been kept in the drawer of a dresser in one of the bedrooms at the Ritchey home.

Holy Cross Hospital Reports Record Year

"The audited report by Horwath and Horwath confirmed that the sixty-ninth fiscal year of Holy Cross Hospital ending May 31, 1965 was eventful," reports Sister M. Nazaria, C.S.C., Administrator.

There are 124 beds in Holy Cross hospital. During 1964-65 the hospital admitted 4,141 patients and provided 39,338 days of patient care.

Of these 39,338 days of patient care an increase of 6% and 7% respectively over last year. These patients were cared for by 301 employees whose salaries amounted to $896,924 representing 72% of the total annual expenditure of $1,363,631.

The emergency room, a vital service in the hospital, gave treatments to 7,327 patients. Surgical, X-ray, and laboratory procedures increased considerably, due to the 88.3% average occupancy during the year.

Of those admitted 2,709 were from Morgan county, including 2,196 from Jacksonville. There were 375 from Cass county; 335 from Greene county; 324 from Scott county; 75 from Macoupin county, 49 from Sangamon county, 222 from miscellaneous Illinois counties and 52 from out of State. Over 20% of the patients admitted were under 21 years of age. Over 35% were 60 years or older.

The hospital in November 1964, upon the recommendation of the Medical Staff voluntarily adopted a policy whereby every newborn undergoes a P.K.U. test to determine possibly metabolic deficiency. Early diagnosis of such a deficiency, and prompt treatment of the condition, prevents progressive mental retardation in the infant. This test is now required by law as of April 19, 1965. In the hospital's obstetrical department 300 babies were delivered last year.

The average cost of patient care at Holy Cross Hospital is $32.33 a day. This is $6.02 less than the State average for hospitals of comparable size. The per diem cost increased 12 cents last year, even though salaries and professional fees increased 33 cents per patient day. The high annual occupancy rate helped to keep the increased per diem cost to a minimum.

New Equipment — The acquisition of new and improved equipment for diagnostic and patient care is a major index of progress in Holy Cross hospital.

During 1964-65 equipment costing $45,737 was added. Some of the major items were: Medical Laboratory, radio active isotope system and a Gilman Electrophoresis unit.

Surgery, electric operating table and a Bennett respirator assistant to regulate respiration during anesthesia.

Physical Therapy, Medco Sonolator and mobile massage machine.

Obstetrical unit, Birtheezee and six complete sets of furniture for patients' rooms, including all electric Hilow beds.

In all the patients' rooms in the West wing televisions were replaced by new models which include an F.M. channel. These television models were also installed in the East wing. The additional cost was underwritten by the Holy Cross Auxiliary.

A Troy washer and extractor unit was installed in the laundry during the year.

Current Future Projects — Currently in the West wing the installation of 59 cooling and heating room units is in process. Other plans for the West wing include improved lighting fixtures, and piped-in oxygen in all the patients' rooms, the lowering of the corridor ceilings and complete renovation of the utility rooms on each floor.

These farms are 10 miles southwest of Winchester.

The eight room residence, located on West Cherry street, sold for $14,000 and was purchased by Joseph M. Gross, veterinarian.

Executors were Mabel Smith Parr, Anna Nieman Overton and D. L. Yelm

Chart Atom Blast To Benefit

What would be the first government-private industry use of a nuclear explosion for peaceful purposes is now under study by the Atomic Energy Commission.

The proposal is to set off a blast 4,000 feet underground in New Mexico's San Juan Basin to fracture "tight" gas-bearing rock formations.

A study by El Paso Natural Gas Co. and the U.S. Bureau of Mines, with technical assistance from the AEC, indicates that nuclear explosions would increase production of natural gas fields by about seven times over the amount now attainable.

The study, called "Gasbuggy," is part of the AES's Plowshare Program to develop industrial and scientific uses for nuclear explosions. Other possible projects that have been suggested in the past are harbor dredging and blasting a new canal across Central America.

In "Gasbuggy," a 10-kiloton bomb (equivalent to 10,000 tons of TNT or five million quarts of nitroglycerin) would be used. It would vaporize the rock into a subterranean chamber about 350 high and 130 feet wide, which would become a reservoir into which gas would flow from fractures around it. The reservoir would later be tapped by drilling a hole to it from the surface.

The practical use of controlled nuclear reactions is now old hat. In the past 10 years, as many as 18 nuclear-fueled electric power plants have begun operation. It is only a matter of time—and an increasingly short time—until the violent aspect of the atom is also harnessed for the benefit of man.

Promotion Speedup

A bulwark of the armed forces has been attacked by that upsetter of precedents, Defense Secretary McNamara. He has told the three service secretaries that he feels "increasing concern" over the rules for picking generals and admirals. He believes that "considerably more attention" must be given to "timely advancement of the best-qualified officers" to senior ranks.

It is not simply that McNamara wants outstanding junior officers promoted over less able seniors, though that is part of what he is getting at. He also dislikes the practice of keeping an officer in one rank for some years before moving him upward. Mediocre men tend to move ahead as rapidly as first-rate men, under this system, and the delay causes resignations of some talented officers who are discouraged over slow promotion.

The present setup does permit a few outstanding officers to be promoted from below each year, but the percentage is small. Apparently McNamara wants to ease this restriction. Some good precedents argue the wisdom of such a change. President Theodore Roosevelt, for example, aroused much criticism among officers because he promoted two captains to brigadier-general, but the later careers of both justified their extraordinary boost. One was the Philippines fighter, Frederick Funston. The other was John J. Pershing, who became our top commander in World War I.

Admittedly it discourages an officer of many years' standing to see one of his juniors jumped over him. But sometimes this is for the good of the service. It is this consideration that lends merit to McNamara's proposals for change.

World Leaders Rap U.S.—Until They Need Our Help

By RAY CROMLEY

Washington Correspondent

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In world politics, how a prime minister reacts depends on whose ox is being gored.

India's Lal Bahadur Shastri criticizes U.S. aid to Saigon. He asserts a Communist take-over in South Viet Nam would not endanger the security of India or other Asian countries. The spirit of Vietnamese nationalism, he says, would protect Vietnamese people from Red China.

But when Mao Tse-tung's

Communist Chinese armies invasion India, New Delhi demanded quick U.S. military help. The Indians didn't count on the spirit of nationalism to protect them from the Chinese.

Shastri knows nationalism doesn't keep Lithuania, Latvia or Estonia from being ruled by Russian invaders. It doesn't prevent Tibet or North Korea from being ruled by the Chinese or a large part of Kashmir from being ruled by the Indians. It didn't prevent Formosa from being ruled by the Japanese before World War II. The Indians didn't depend on nationalism to get Goa from Portugal;

they marched troops in.

As for the Chinese invasion of India, Mao didn't stop until the United States came in with heavy aid and until the United States made it clear we might fight it necessary.

In this incident, it was the Pakistanis who thought it was wrong for the United States to give the Indians so much military aid. They were afraid of Shastri's country.

DeGaulle sternly denounced

President Johnson for moving into the Dominican Republic to insure against Communist take-over. But when Reds threatened a former French African colony, DeGaulle rushed

French forces in.

A number of European countries protest that small Viet Nam isn't worth such deep U.S.

involvement. When they were attacked in World War II, these same nations quickly demanded

U.S. troops. They criticize any suggestion now that the United States reduce its forces in Europe.

In World War II these European lands resented the diversion of U.S. forces to the Pacific until Europe was freed. They didn't want us to get tied down in the Korean war for fear we wouldn't be free to counter Russian moves in Berlin.

U Thant, secretary-general of the United Nations, a Burmes, has publicly criticized the United States for actions in South Viet Nam. But leading

Burmese privately ask the United States to stay, arguing that Burma wouldn't last long after South Viet Nam fell.

Britain reacted strongly in opposition when Saigon forces used U.S.-supplied riot gas. But the British used the same types in Cyprus.

This is not to say the United States never makes mistakes and that other countries are always wrong when they criticize our actions. It doesn't mean the advice and counsel of neutrals, friends or allies must be of the

"yes sir" variety.

But it is evident each country thinks of its own immediate problems.

Some countries believe the Reds will leave them alone at home if we give in to them elsewhere—say in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic.

Some don't want the United States to get so involved at another end of the world, we wouldn't be able to come to their aid.

The moral is that after getting all the facts it can, the United States will have to chart its own course with humility, firmness and vigor. It will be impossible to please everyone.

Sometimes it may be impossible to please anyone.

A Little Child Shall Lead Them

Dear Ann:

Finds Parental Ties Binding

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Although I am 23-years-old, a college graduate, and hold a very responsible position, I am unable to speak up to my parents and live my own life. I know this is terrible and I'm ashamed of myself, but these are the facts. The specific problem I need your help with is this:

For almost two years I have been wanting to move out of the house and into an apartment with one or two girls. My parents insist that nice girls stay under the family roof until they marry — unless they move out of the city. My mother says the only reason a girl would want to move out of the house and into an apartment is so she can live loosely and do things her parents wouldn't approve of. I've talked until I'm purple in the face but I can't get them to see my point of view. Can you help?

—CAGED

Dear Caged: A 23-year-old college graduate should live under her parents' roof "only"

if she chooses to do so.

It is interesting that your parents are willing to let you be on your own in another city. If you "really" wanted your independence as much as you claim to want it you'd be long gone.

Dear Ann Landers: A very good friend of mine was invited to a rather elegant party Saturday night. She asked to borrow my fox cape. I said "yes" without a moment's hesitation. This friend has done so many favors for me I was pleased at the chance to reciprocate.

Last night I wore the fox cape to a dinner meeting of our club.

One woman said to me, "I see you and Barnadette have fox capas exactly alike." I smiled and remained silent because I didn't feel like telling her that Barnadette had borrowed my cape.

When we got home my husband almost bit my head off. He said, "I gave you the cape for your anniversary and I didn't mean for you to pass it around."

Is he right or wrong? —AN-

SWER NEEDED

Dear Answer: Most husbands couldn't care less about such matters. Since your husband "does" care, you should respect his wishes.

Dear Ann Landers: After five years of steady courtship (which included our summer vacations together by car) Clyde gave me an engagement ring. He asked me not to wear the ring for a while because his ex-wife was

"the jealous type and unstable."

He said she might harm me if she knew about us. I couldn't understand his attitude because they were divorced before Clyde and I met.

Two months ago Clyde asked for the ring so he could have it reset with a larger diamond. I was thrilled. Last week when I asked him why the jeweler was taking so long he said, "I have something to tell you and I hope you don't get sore. I gave the ring to my ex-wife for her birthday. She brought all the kids over to my place. I had forgotten it was her birthday and hadn't bought her anything. Naturally I felt like a heel. The ring was in my pocket so I gave it to her."

I am heartsick and don't know what to do. Clyde begged me to be patient. He promised to buy me another ring soon. I have no other male friends and I am terribly afraid of being alone. Can you help me? —HEADACHE

Dear Headache: Get with it.

Lady. You're alone "NOW".

Clyde has never left his wife emotionally, and in time he'll probably go back to her. If you believe any more of his lies you're hopelessly stupid or wacky — or both.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems.

Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envel-

Soybean Association To Meet In Memphis, Hub Of Vast Acreage

HUDSON, IOWA—The American Soybean association's 45th convention goes to Memphis, the center of the second heaviest soybean-producing area of the nation, Aug. 16-18. The leading soybean producing area is the Midwest Cornbelt.

The six states of the Midsouth immediately surrounding Memphis—Missouri, Kentucky, Arkansas, Tennessee, Louisiana, and Mississippi have been making tremendous jumps in soybean production in recent years, and have kept pace with the trend nationally, says Geo. M. Strayer, ASA executive vice president.

In 1954, when the Soybean association also met in Memphis, the six Midsouth states produced only 48.5 million bushels. Production had almost tripled by 1960—when ASA met there last—with a 139.5-million-bushel crop. By 1964, a dry season for the area, the Midsouth crop was up another 25%—to 171.7 million bushels. A new record-size acreage has been planted to soybeans in Midsouth states this year and the largest crop of all time is in prospect. Memphis lies close to the rich, black Mississippi Delta lands where soybeans thrive.

Arkansas and Missouri constantly rank among the nation's top five states in soybean production. Last year they were fourth and fifth, in that order.

The convention will be held at the Peabody Hotel, Memphis, Aug. 16 and 17, to be followed by a field trip to the famed 30,000-acre Lee Wilson & Co. plantation at Lee, Ark., and the Northeast Branch Experiment Station at Keiser, Ark., on Aug. 18.

Puzzle: What Premium Can You Safely Pay To Enlarge The Farm?

How much premium can you afford to pay for land to enlarge your farm to a more profitable size?

University of Illinois farm management economist Franklin J. Reiss reports that justifiable premiums for added land as a way to manage a cost problem will vary with the possible savings and the time needed to find an alternate solution. Paying the full premium for land is no real solution because it merely shifts the imbalance from high labor and capital costs to high land costs.

Here is how Reiss illustrates the situation:

Suppose that you now farm 240 acres, but have enough machinery, equipment and labor to farm 320 acres. An 80-acre tract adjoining your farm is to be sold at auction. You know that neighbors are also interested in this land and that the buyer will have to pay more than the normal market price for it.

A simple, though misleading, answer to the premium you can afford to pay results if you figure the savings in costs as added net income from using your fixed labor and machinery on the new 80 acres. Then capitalize the amount.

For example, if you "save" $12 an acre a year on the new land in labor, interest and depreciation on machinery and equipment, you could divide this figure by an appropriate interest rate—say five percent. The $240 that results suggests that you could afford to pay as much as $240 an acre more than the land's market price to make the savings in cost.

Far Too High
This would be an unjustifiably high premium, Reiss believes. And, in some parts of Illinois, it is more than land is worth. A premium of not more than $60 per acre is the maximum that could be justified.

To support this conclusion, Reiss points out that buying additional land is usually not the only way to solve the problem of too many resources or inefficient use of resources. You may also rent more land, expand your volume of business on present acreage, do custom work off the farm, or find part-time off-farm work.

Time is the key to any possible solution of the problem, Reiss adds. Buying the extra land would presumably solve the problem at once while de-

ILLINOIS OUTLOOK LETTER

SOYBEAN PRICES REFLECT CHANGING CONDITIONS

Soybean prices have been gyrating in a fashion typical of situations where supplies are uncertain. There are two major uncertainties now: (1) No one knows for sure how many beans are left from the 1964 crop. (2) There has been some doubt as to how early this year's crop will be available for market.

It is apparent that practically all old soybeans will be used by the time the new-crop harvest begins. The uncertainty concerns the exact amount of beans now remaining for processing and export. A difference of a few million bushels could make a big difference in prices during the rest of this marketing year.

Some new soybeans are marketed and used in September each year. When supplies of old beans are critically short, as now, the development of the new crop has a strong influence on prices of old beans. Anything that threatens to delay the availability of the new crop tends to raise prices of old beans.

Oil Price Down, Meal Up
The price of soybean oil has declined more than 2 cents a pound from its season high. This decline in oil values reflects a worldwide easing in prices of fats and oils.

By itself, the decline in the about 25 cent a bushel from the value of soybeans. The decreases in oil price, however, has been partly offset by a rise in the price of soybean meal. Recent prices were $6 to $8 a ton higher than during much of the past spring and winter. This rise has added 15 or 20 cents to the value of a bushel of soybeans, so that the net decrease is 5 to 10 cents a bushel. The rise of meal prices reflect the advance in prices of cattle and hogs and a big increase in the production of broilers.

Prices For New Crop Lower
Prices offered for new-crop beans are around 45 cents lower than for beans already in the bin. The lower prices offered for the 1965 crop reflect expectations that it will be a record-breaker by a big margin.

A record crop is expected because (1) the acreage planted is larger than ever before, and (2) the average yields is likely to be greater than last year.

Earlier this year farmer's reports to the USDA indicated that they would plant 34 million acres of soybeans. This acreage would be 8 percent more than was planted in 1964 and 28 percent more than the five-year 1959-1963 average.

The new crop is growing well in most areas—though there are, as usual, some exceptions. The USDA will not make any official forecast of production until August, but if the trend of the past 10 years persists, the most likely yield is 25 bushels per acre. This would be nearly 10 percent higher than last year and about equal to the record yield in 1961.

If 34 million acres produce an average of 25 bushels per acre, the 1965 crop will total 850 million bushels. This production would be 21 percent more than the 700 million bushels harvested in each of the past two years. Such an amount would be considerably more than is likely to be used and exported. Thus prices may dip to the price support level, which will be $2.25 a bushel.

Assistant Farm Adviser

RALPH ROMIG

Ralph Romig of Perryville, Mo., has been employed as Morgan County assistant farm adviser. The announcement was made last week by Dale Leeper, chairman of the Morgan County Agricultural Extension council.

Romig will start here Aug. 1. He is coming to Morgan County with a background of several years of Extension experience and farming experience in Missouri. He is a native of Pettis County, Mo., and a graduate of the University of Missouri, with a degree in agriculture and a major in agricultural extension.

He served as assistant county agent in Lincoln County, Mo., and as balanced farming agent in Randolph County, Mo.

For the last several years, Romig has been engaged in farming as a breeder of purebred Hampshire hogs, purebred Hampshire sheep and Shorthorn cattle. He has been active in farm and livestock organizations, serving as president of the Perry County Farm Bureau and for the past four years as director of the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation. He also has served as district director of the Missouri Livestock association and president of the South Missouri Hampshire Breeders.

During World War II, Romig was in the Air Force, serving in the European area.

Ralph and his wife Betty are the parents of three sons, David, 12, Charles, 10, and John, 1. They will be moving to Morgan County as soon as housing arrangements can be made.

Romig will serve as assistant farm adviser, with the primary responsibility of the Agricultural 4-H club program. He succeeds Dale Millis, who will begin graduate work in agronomy at the University of Illinois.

Overfeeding Cattle Costly To Industry

OMAHA — "The reduction in average slaughter weights of fed cattle has undoubtedly contributed prominently to the more realistic price level now prevailing," says Robert H. Ray of Norfolk, Neb., president of the National Livestock Feeders Association.

Ray states that the average weight of fed steers began a definite decline in April of 1964 after weights ran high in 1963 and earlier 1964. Since about May 1 last year, average steer weights have been decidedly under levels that prevailed 12 months previously. The average weight decline means that increased numbers of head slaughtered have not brought a corresponding increase in beef production and, in periods when slaughter declined, we have experienced a greater reduction in beef production.

Healthier Trend
"Without question," Ray continued, "the cattle and beef industry is healthier under present weight conditions, and I would urge all feeders to be particularly conscious of the adverse effects on the market that can be caused by appreciable numbers of heavyweight cattle and higher average weights."

In the month of May, 1965, the weight of all steers sold on 7 major terminal markets averaged 1,091 lbs., 34 pounds less per head than the average weight in the same month of 1964. Comparing the month of March, the weight of all steers sold on the same markets averaged a 1,092 lbs. in 1965, 66 pounds less than the average in the same month of 1964. The almost 100 percent difference is due to the fact that average weights were declining in 1964 whereas since March of this year the average weights have been about the same.

Overfeeding Costly
In addition to the adverse impact "of overfed cattle on the price structure" Ray continued "the cost of gains goes up rapidly after cattle reach a certain degree of finish or time in the feedlot." The Feeders association executive acknowledged that the point at which a pronounced cost increase occurs varies with the way cattle are fed, the age of the cattle and the time they have been fed. Nevertheless, the general principle applies and individual feeders can determine the time when this increase becomes prominent in their individual lots of cattle.

"In keeping both of these matters in mind, cattle feeders not only will protect their own economic situation but also will make a real contribution to a healthier price structure for the entire feeding industry," the association executive concluded.

Leeper Elected Head Of Morgan Extension Group

Dale Leeper, rural route 1, Ashland, is the new chairman of the Morgan County Agricultural Extension council.

He was elected at an organizational meeting held Thursday evening at the County Extension office and succeeds Lester Penick of Franklin.

Other officers chosen were John Clark, route 2, Arenzville, vice chairman, and Murrell Wheeler, route 1, Ashland, secretary-treasurer.

New members of the council have been announced by Director John B. Claar of the U.I. College of Agriculture. They include Harold Hembrough, Route 5, Jacksonville; Dale Mawson, route 1, Jacksonville; Louis S. Smith, route 2, Franklin; Clyde York, route 4, Jacksonville.

Members reappointed to second terms are James Johnson of Waverly and Murrell Wheeler of Ashland.

Findley Blasts Farm Bill; 'Most Expensive Package In History'

WASHINGTON, D.C.—U. S. Rep. Paul Findley (R-Ill.) declared last week the 4-year omnibus farm bill approved by the House Agriculture Committee is the "most expensive package ever put together in the history of farm legislation—and that's saying something."

He said its total cost will exceed $19 billion.

In a statement from his office, Findley said: "Judging from past performance, taxpayers will get very little in exchange for the $19 billion. The bill leads nowhere. 'Under it not one single program is to be phased out during the four-year period. After the $19 billion is spent, I predict the situation will be as bad as today — and perhaps worse."

"Costly Wheel - Spinning"
"The bill does not correct — or even begin to correct — the basic problems of American agriculture. It contains more of the same costly wheel-spinning in which the taxpayers have been engaged for the past four years."

"Here is the four-year cost breakdown, based entirely on USDA statistics and estimates: Wheat $5,880,000,000 Feed Grains 6,040,000,000 Cotton 2,900,000,000 Wool 168,000,000 Cropland adjustment 5,000,000,000 Total $19,988,000,000

"The wheat item does not include the direct cost to consumers represented by the bread tax. This cost, estimated at $625 million a year, would add $2.5 billion to the grand total.

More For Cotton?
"Current costs for wheat, feed grains and cotton were used to project totals. For example, last year's wheat program cost $1.47 billion, and last year's feed grains program cost $1.51 billion. Under Secretary Murphy estimated the cotton program will cost $725 million in the current year. In my opinion, costs for each commodity will probably rise, and this is especially true in cotton. New provisions for overplant, diversion and government purchase of allotments will tend to boost costs in cotton.

"The wool cost figure is based on the last five-year average.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — National Farmers Union President James G. Patton Thursday hailed the 1965 Omnibus Farm Bill as landmark legislation which should greatly assist America's family farmers.

"The bill which the House Agriculture Committee cleared today," Patton said, "is a tribute to the unified efforts of an energetic committee, a tireless Secretary of Agriculture, and dedicated farmers and farm organizations, and I hope the Congress will accept it promptly."

"I am extremely proud of the efforts contributed to this unity by the Farmers Union members and spokesmen who worked so hard to improve the bill as originally sent to Congress."

"Specifically, four-year commodity programs instead of two-year ones, 100 percent of parity on domestic wheat, a dairy bill including manufacturing milk, a cotton plan including direct payments to growers and a retention of the existing rice plan are landmarks which should assist farmers and rural America alike, and which Farmers Union sought incessantly," Patton continued.

"Yet all of this and more would not have been possible without a sincere Agriculture Committee led by Congressman Harold Cooley.

Shuman, Patton, As Usual In Total Disagreement

CHICAGO — Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation Thursday issued the following statement on the action of the House Agriculture Committee approving a new omnibus farm bill:

"The omnibus farm bill approved by the House Agriculture Committee today is anti-farmer, anti-consumer, and anti-taxpayer."

The House of Representatives should reject this bill promptly and decisively and then begin work on constructive legislation. Farm Bureau has proposed, and Congress has before it, bills which would strengthen the market system, improve per family farm income, and reduce government costs.

As it now stands, the Committee's bill would extend the authority of the Secretary of Agriculture to depress farm income by dumping government-owned stocks of farm commodities on the open market.

It would make many farmers dependent on direct payments from the federal treasury for their incomes.

It would increase government farm program costs to taxpayers. At the same time it would increase the processing tax on flour and raise the cost of bread to consumers.

ACROSS THE FIELDS AND FURROWS

with ED GARLICH

FARM MORTGAGE DEBT UP IN 1964!
Farm mortgage debt advanced 12% last year to an estimated $18.9 billion as of January 1, 1965.

Farm mortgage debt is now about 11 per cent of total value compared to 13 per cent in 1920 and over 30 per cent in the 30's. Foreclosures last year averaged 1 out of each 3,000 loans and only 2 out of each 1,000 were behind on interest payments.

Current value of farmland and buildings is about $159 billion. In 1920 it was $66 billion and $48 billion in 1929.

FROM THE CORN CRIB!
In the crowded railroad station, at 6 in the evening, a woman sat wiping her eyes and answering the questions a man was asking in a low tone. Suddenly the man rose and faced the crowded room. "Good people," he said, "here is a poor woman who wants enough money to take her to visit her family in Salt Lake City. I myself am not wealthy, but I am willing to contribute $10. How many of you will add something?" Off came his hat, and inside it, added to the $10 bill, there was soon a considerable pile of money with which the woman hurried to the ticket window.

A man on the fringe of the crowd came up to the man who had started the collection. "Bill Smith, aren't you?"

"I am."

"And isn't that your wife?"

"She is," he admitted shamelessly. "And why shouldn't I give my wife a $10 bill to help her off on a visit?"

Select Top 4-H Public Speakers Wednesday Night

Carol Ann Becker of Woodson and Wayne Bloomfield of Ashland were winners in the Morgan County 4-H club public speaking contest held Wednesday at farm Bureau Hall.

Carolyn Calvert, Morgan-Scott assistant home adviser, reports that nine 4-H members participated in the public speaking activity this year.

They were, in addition to the winners, Larry Martin, Nancy McSherry, Donna Thompson, Judy Cors, Rena Ham, Jean Tholen and Meri Sue Wallace.

Carol Ann Becker is a member of the Peppy Peppers 4-H club. The topic of her talk was "Happiness." Wayne Bloomfield of the Berea Ag club spoke on the topic "Are You Your Brother's Keeper?" They will represent Morgan County in the public speaking activity at the State Fair Aug. 19.

In the agricultural demonstration contest, Bobby DeOrnellas of the North Side club demonstrated how to make a bench light, and Mary Ellen McKean of Arcadia Aces gave a demonstration in indoor gardening.

Mrs. Mildred Riley, teacher at Franklin High School, and Alfred J. Henderson of MacMurray College served as judges. Trophies will be presented to the winners in the public speaking contest by the Jacksonville Kiwanis club.

Horticulture Course Offered At Danville

URBANA — This fall Danville Junior College in Danville will offer one of the first vocational training programs for non-farm agricultural careers.

Danville will offer a two-year ornamental horticulture curriculum to prepare students for specific jobs in businesses requiring a horticulture training. The supervisor of vocational agriculture at Danville Junior College, James Nickell, says the two-year curriculum is a post-high school program encouraged by the Vocational Education Act of 1963.

The two-year program will provide both classroom and on-the-job training for students. On-the-job training will be conducted during the summer following the first two semesters of classroom instruction and during each of the two semesters during the second year. Students will be placed with local horticulture businesses for this training which will be at least 25 percent of the total curriculum hours.

The Danville campus grounds College served as judges. Trophies will be presented to the winners in the public speaking contest by the Jacksonville Kiwanis club.

offer excellent facilities for horticulture training center. Horticulture facilities available on the campus include a golf course, a nursery, a greenhouse, and at least 47 acres of lawn. Over 100 different species of trees grow on the college grounds.

Graduates of the special horticulture curriculum will be trained as semi-professional workers to act as foremen, assistants, and technical workers. They will qualify for employment as technicians in such fields as turf management, greenhouse management, park management, floriculture and floral design, highway beautification, tree surgery, arboriculture and landscape.

Job placement for immediate employment upon graduation will be provided as part of the program. The State Advisory Committee on Ornamental Horticulture in a recent survey found that if 300 students trained in horticulture were graduated each year for the next fifteen years, the demand for these technicians would still not be met.

DOG'S LIFE

The cat had shinnied up the tree,
As you and I can probably see
The scrawny dog that sat on a roof,
Had almost bitten the poor cat's foot.
He had chased her through the town,
Through the streets up and down.
He was now begging her to crawl down,
So he could chase her again through the town.
Now the sun was beginning to set,
And they'd better get back for both were pets.
So off they trotted home and then,
Settled down in their own little pens.

Let's Go Birding

Catbird Antics

By Emma Mae Leonhard

Cats and kittens spend a good portion of their "nine lives" in play, usually teasing play. They spit and spat, scuffle and scowl, mew and yowl; they tumble and toss one another. They don't show off — in fact, they ignore or snub us — but they provide free entertainment for many adults and children. And they spend another portion of their waking hours just prowling around.

The Catbird seems to be properly named. Everyone who hears the out-of-doors sounds has undoubtedly heard the distinctive catlike mew of this sassy-gray bird and sometimes real cat-calls in its jumbled medley of music.

And there is more of the cat about the Catbird than its catlike calls. At least one special Catbird pursued a playfully teasing game with a Starling. For no evident reason it appeared on the lawn near the Starling and was carrying in its bill a prematurely yellowing leaf from the nearby Flowering Crab tree. It quirked its tail to the right and then to the left, spreading the feathers out like a fan.

The Starling waddled toward the Catbird, evidently with the hope of being given the yellow leaf; but it was a vain hope. Its teaser retreated nonchalantly, with its black beady eyes upon it; and soon unburiedly and gracefully, advanced in a semi-circle, fanning its dark gray tail as before and strutting in a most winning fashion. Again the Starling took heart and moved toward the Catbird to accept the yellow leaf. Again its teaser went through the same alluring antics. This amusing game, amusing at least to us observers, continued for several minutes until the Catbird carried the leaf into the crabapple tree and hid it in the lush foliage. The Starling quietly waddled away over the lawn.

Naturally our silent applause was for the Catbird, our constant singing entertainer in the garden. For who would applaud an unwanted Starling!

Prayer Poem—

Watch Out For StumblingStone

By Mary Pence Claywell

Life's road has many stumbling stones;
We can not miss them all . . .
But if we keep our footing,
And don't completely fall,
We once more find, we're up right
And if we're very deft,
God gives us strength and courage
To take another step:
But when we strike a stumbling stone,
It doth behoove each one
To pause and to consider
Where . . . they are coming from:
We, all, are prone to stumble,
And even, with great care,
So surely, someone's out in front,
To drop them . . . here and there:
It seems quite realistic,
Since the culprit's never seen,
To blame it on the Devil,
For, he's just that down-right mean.
He's always been a temptor,
He wants to see us fall,
And so he slyly drops his stones
In front . . . of one and all:
Perhaps it is the "bottle,"
One of the biggest stones.
Or just an uncured "temper,"
Or an ugly, broken "home,"
Some stumble on "temptation"
To rob, or steal, or kill . . .
And these are stones, that lay us prone,
So . . . the Devil gets a thrill:
And there are many others,
Where we may think it's smooth,
But we are bound to stumble,
Unless we can refuse
To cast our lot with Satan,
Who stalks our path each day,
And drops a thousand stumbling stones
To clutter up the way.
Please help us, Lord,
To recognize
Each stone that's hard to see,
And help us keep our "footing,"
By holding . . . onto Thee!

Cousin Clara's Visit

By John Rankin

It was a warm summer evening when fourteen-year-old Tony Garrett left the pet shop where he worked through school vacation. Then as he whistled gaily down the street on his way home the youngster's step quickened when his thoughts turned to the all-day fishing trip he planned to make with Dad next Sunday.

Dad was out of town last weekend, and the Sunday before that it had poured down rain all day. Tony recalled with grimace. But surely this time, he made himself believe, nothing would prevent Dad and him from trying their hand at snagging a few of the big bass waiting for them at Deer Lake.

Dad was out in the yard making imaginary casts with his new rod and reel when Tony got home.

"Just watch this, son," he grinned. "Those big bass are in for a rough time when we get down there Sunday."
"You bet they are, Dad," Tony beamed. "Hope nothing comes up like it did last week or maybe rain or something."

Dad gave Tony a look of assurance. "Don't worry, son," he nodded. "The weatherman has promised us a fair weekend - and it'll take an act of congress to keep us away from Deer Lake this time."

"It's only a couple of days till Sunday but I can hardly wait to get down there," Tony put in eagerly. "Mr. Sanders at the pet shop went down yesterday and he says the bass are biting like crazy."

Dad swung his rod and reel over his head in a make-believe cast. "Wait till they have a try at this," he boasted. "A lake of hungry bass and just the two of us to snag 'em . . . ah, it's the answer to a fisherman's dream, son."

Alarming thought
Tony was thoughtful a moment before he said. "Hey, Dad, what if Cousin Clara shows up with her five kids and they all tag along like they did the last time?"

Dad's eyes opened wide with alarm and his pipe fell from his mouth as he spun around to Tony.

"Cousin Clara and her kids?" he gasped. "If she shows up this time with that thundering herd . . . oh, perish the thought!"

"Yeah, like the last time when the kids tangled up our fishing tackle and threw all the bait into the lake," Tony added.

Dad leaned over to pick up his pipe and put it in his pocket before he bristled. "And to top things off one brat fell out of the boat - and another little imp threw the only bass I'd managed to snag back in the water!"

"And when the kids put a snapping turtle in the lunch basket Cousin Clara just laughed it off," Tony began as Mom came tripping out on the porch. "Supper is waiting," she called with a wide grin. "So cast your nets on dry ground and hurry in here."

Telephone rings
Friday night Tony and Dad were tinkering around in the basement workshop - and Mom had just brought down the ironing when the telephone rang. "I'll get it," she said as she turned and started back up the steps.

"If that's my office, say that I'm laid up with smallpox, or that I'm in South Africa - tell 'em anything," Dad called after her. Then with a sly grin at Tony he added, "Let 'em try to louse up our fishing trip this time, eh, son?"

Moments later Tony and Dad looked up quickly as Mom appeared at the head of the stairway. "It was Cousin Clara," she said in answer to their inquiring look. "She's bringing the children for the weekend!"

MY DOG

I have a dog, a friendly dog, but strict sometimes is she. She thinks she owns the household since she has a family. Her puppies are her treasure, a treasure all her own. Go near her precious treasure and her pearly teeth are shown. She yelps like she is thirsty so we give her milk to drink. She ignores it till we have left her then she drinks it all we think. She'll whine to be put out so she can chase cars and baseballs hits. And if you don't let her go out she goes into these awful fits. When you walk her she's not with you, she's behind or she's ahead.

And when you say "roll over" she will sit or lie instead. But really she's a good dog, but at times she is a pest. And sometimes she is very kind and lets me have some rest.

THE BIG ONES

By Walter B. Hendrickson, Jr.

With the launch of the Titan III-C last month the United States rocket arsenal has become equipped with two big ones capable of more than a million pounds of thrust. These two rockets are the Titan III-C and the Saturn I.

The Titan III-C is a four stage rocket standing 151 feet high. The first stage of this rocket is a team of two solid fueled rockets strapped onto the side of the missile. Each of these rockets develops 1.25 million pounds of thrust giving the Titan III-C a total lift-off thrust of 2.5 million pounds.

Hypergolic Fuels
The upper three stages of the Titan III-C are all powered by storable liquid fuel which are hypergolic, that is they explode when they mix. This means that they need no spark to light them as do the fuels of the Saturn. However, it means that the fueling crews must be very careful to see that they don't mix outside the rocket.

With the Titan III-C the fueling crews have added hazard to worry about. The fuels of the Titan, unsymmetrical dimethyl hydrazine (UDMH) and nitrogen tetroxide are poisonous to the touch and give off deadly fumes. This means that the fueling crews of the Titan III-C and the Titan II which uses the same fuels must wear protective clothing that looks very much like the space suits worn by the astronauts that ride the rocket.

Powerful Second Stage
The second stage is powered by two motors developing a total of 430 pounds of thrust. This makes it the most powerful second stage rocket ever used. The third and fourth stage are powered by one motor each. The third stage motor develops 100,000 pounds of thrust and the fourth 16,000 pounds.

The Saturn I is a three-stage rocket standing 185 feet tall. The first stage of the Saturn I is powered by 8 H-1 motors developing a total of 1.5 million pounds of thrust burning RP-1 high-test kerosene in liquid oxygen. The upper stages of the Saturn hydrogen and oxygen combination. The second stage is powered by four motors giving it 70,000 pounds and the third stage is powered by two engines developing 90,000 pounds of thrust.

Both Reliable
In spite of the fact that the Saturn I has twice as many engines as the Titan III-C both rockets are equally reliable. The main difference between the two is the fuels they use.

Liquid oxygen boils at -297 degrees F. (297 degrees below zero) and liquid hydrogen boils at -422.9 degrees F. — lower than any other thing except helium. The insulation needed to keep these fuels liquid would be too heavy for the rockets to carry and still put a satellite into orbit. So the oxygen and hydrogen must be allowed to boil away to keep them from bursting the tanks. (You may remember seeing the plume of liquid oxygen escaping from the Atlas rocket just before the Project Mercury launchings.)

Some of this boiling — or "topping off" as engineers call it — can be allowed for by adding extra oxygen or hydrogen. However, if the Saturn I has to wait on the launch pad too long it will be left with all but its kerosene tanks empty. The Titan III-C with its storable fuels, which are liquid at normal temperatures can be kept waiting on the pad as long as necessary for launch. This feature proved valuable on the very first launching of the Titan III-C when the launching had to be postponed a day because of bad weather.

Thelma Wohlers, Jerry Barrington Wed Last Sunday

The Reverend Herbert C. Rose, pastor, performed the double ring ceremony last Sunday afternoon, July eleventh, uniting in marriage Miss Thelma Irene Wohlers of this city and Jerry Lee Barrington of Little York, Illinois.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Gladys Wohlers of Jacksonville and the late Arthur J. W. Wohlers. The groom is the son of Mrs. George Bratton of Little York and the late John W. Barrington.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Robert Essex, was matron of honor and Miss Barbara Hillgoss of Aledo was bridesmaid. Bill Barrington, Little York, brother of the groom, was best man and Gerald Wohlers, Jacksonville, brother of the bride, was groomsmen.

Miss Mary Kay McGinnis sang and Mrs. George Locke was at the organ.

The bride was given in marriage by her oldest brother, Owen Wohlers and her mother. She wore a gown of Venice lace and organza falling train. An organza and lace headdress held her veil of illusion and she carried white baby mums and rosebuds with stephanotis and ivy.

The bride's attendants wore floor length pink brocaded satin with pink headdresses. They carried colonial bouquets of pink and white carnations.

Guests were seated by Dale Haben, Michael Booth and Dwane Stout.

Greene - Donovan Rites Sunday At Christian Church

The Reverend William Sturges officiated for the Sunday afternoon ceremony, July eleventh, at the Central Christian church in this city when Miss Linda Lorraine Donovan became the bride of Gary William Greene. White gladioli, palms and ferns banked the altar of the church.

Mrs. Gary Donovan sang during the nuptial prelude with Miss Mahala McGehee at the organ.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted J. Donovan, 1497 Passavant Drive and the groom is the son of Mrs. Bernice Alderson of Chapin.

Miss Barbara DeFries was maid of honor and Miss Judy Hull and Miss Cheryl Coumbes, both of Chapin, were bridesmaids. The attendants wore floor length mint green peau de soie gowns. Their headdresses, which matched their gowns, were bow shaped with brief noseveils. Each carried a bouquet of green and white carnations.

Charles (Tony) Crews of Chapin was best man and Don Rigor, Chapin and Glen Coats of Merritt, were groomsmen. Ushers were Robert Donovan, cousin of the bride, David Nerganah, Chapin, cousin of the groom and Don Homer, cousin of the groom.

Kathy Ommen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ommen of Chapin, was flower girl and Kevin Gibbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Gibbs, was ring bearer.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a bouffant gown of white silk organza with Chantilly lace fashioned train. A cabbage rose headpiece, worn forward, held her blusher veil of illusion. The bride carried a cascade of gardenias with stephanotis and ivy.

The bride's mother wore a blue linen ensemble with matching color accessories and the groom's mother chose a pink lace costume with white accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white carnations.

At the reception held at the Dunlap Motor Inn the following friends assisted, Mrs. Dale Homer, Mrs. Tony Crews, Mrs. Dan Fortado, Miss Beverly Wilson of Lynnville, Miss Sherry Illias, Virginia, cousin of the bride and Lana Gail Donovan, sister of the bride.

Since returning from a wedding trip to Northern States the newlyweds are making their home at 603 North Church street.

The bride, a 1965 graduate of Jacksonville High School, attended the Flamingo Beauty College until her marriage. The bridegroom, a graduate of Triopia High School, is employed by James Newell, Painting Contractor, of Franklin.

Guests attended from Alexander, Arenzville, Beardstown, Meredosia, Ashland, Murrayville, Chapin and Jacksonville,

The former Cheryl Rae Cogswell and Richard Earl Parker, June newlyweds are presently living at Charleston, Illinois where Mr. Parker will receive his MA degree in August from Eastern Illinois University. This fall he will be a coach and faculty member at Mahomet, Illinois.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ora Chaplin of Perry and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell McKinney of Baylis.

Miss Jerry Thiele and Michael Orr attended the couple.

The bride wore a street costume of white arnel with lace and a flat bow headdress with shoulder veil. She carried a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses and white pompons.

Miss Thiel wore pink and had white carnations. The bride's mother wore white with blue accessories and the groom's mother chose the same color combination. Both wore corsages of white carnations.

The newlyweds will make their home at 409 West Adams street in Springfield. The bride graduated from Perry High School in 1965 and the groom in 1963. She is employed in the Auditor's Office, State of Illinois at Springfield. The groom is also a State employee.

Getting ready to use that hand-cranked ice cream freezer? Be sure to rinse the can with boiling water if the freezer has been in storage during the winter. Then rinse again with cold water and dry.

If you want superb waffles, use plenty of melted butter or margarine in the batter!

If you want a savory filling for miniature cream puffs to be served as an appetizer, you can use blue cheese mixed with cream cheese and a little sherry.

THE DESTRUCTION BY FIRE OF BARNUM'S AMERICAN MUSEUM, IN NEW YORK, July 13, 1865. Sketched by A. R. Waud. — HARPER'S WEEKLY.

News, Views Century Ago

From the Jacksonville Sentinel:

ANOTHER OLD CITIZEN GONE — David A. Smith, Esq., an old citizen and prominent lawyer of this city, died at Anoka, some twenty-five miles from St. Paul, Minn., on Thursday of last week. Mr. Smith was traveling with his wife and invalid son for health, when in the above named place he was attacked with erysipelas in the head which resulted fatally. The remains reached this city on Monday and were interred on Tuesday.

Mr. Smith was a lawyer of very considerable talent. He emigrated to this state from Alabama at an early day and amassed considerable wealth, having occupied a prominent position at the bar in this section of the state. He was ardent in his political and sectarian views — exceedingly liberal in donations of his wealth to those ends — and withal public spirited.

The many subscribers of HARPER'S WEEKLY got their copy the following week, with the cover bearing the illustration above.

The reporter for the illustrated newspaper wrote:

Though not the oldest, yet certainly the most notable of the landmarks of our city, has been removed by fire.

Last winter, it will be remembered, there was an attempt made by a rebel spy to set fire to Barnum's American Museum, on the corner of Park Row and Ann Street. What the plot of the incendiary failed to do, accident has successfully accomplished, and the Museum lies in ashes.

The fire broke out in the basement, from the contact of the heated boiler of the engine with dry wood, at about half after 12 o'clock on Thursday, July 13. The hour for the catastrophe could not have been more fitly chosen. There were comparatively few persons in the Museum, and these all escaped without injury. Very little of the property in the Museum was rescued — the live seal, a box of rare coins, and a few things of trivial value, were all, we believe, that was saved.

In half an hour after the outbreak of the fire the whole building was in flames; and the long serpent tongues of fire pierced the transparencies and painted shields upon the walls, ascending high above the roof. The spectacle was one of the most splendid which we ever beheld.

There were many valuable trophies consumed upon this massive funeral pyre. There were the uniforms worn by the heroes of the Revolution, the tools and specimens of the American Indians, specimens of the mineral and animal kingdoms, brought from every quarter of the world, and among these the most beautiful collection of tropical fishes ever got together. There, too, was the Egyptian mummy, which had defied decay for three thousand years, but was now compelled to yield to the element of fire. The two new whales which Barnum had just transported from Labrador at great cost were roasted alive, as were the other animals.

At half past two o'clock the walls of the Museum had fallen and the fire had spread to adjacent buildings. Eighteen houses were set ablaze, and about half of these were totally destroyed.

This Museum was the only place of resort for amusement that could be called universal. Those living in this city visited it periodically. The first thing to be done by the sight-seeing visitor to the city was to go to Barnum's.

Among the many attractions one of the chief was the Lecture Room, with its dramatic performance three times a day. Barnum had a magnificent advantage over other theatrical managers — that of appreciating the value of a name. It was players and 12 solo performers. James B. Sergeant sold to Wm. H. Sergeant, lots 1 and 2, block 6, in Bethel, for $250. Isaac W. Scott sold to John T. Alexander the north half of Sec. 36, T. 14, R. 8. — 333 acres — for $10,400.

Shippers are paying this week, for cattle $5.50 to $6; for hogs $7 to $7.50.

The First National bank of this city has sold since our last report, 7-30 U.S. bonds to the amount of $80,000.

From the Jacksonville Journal: GREENE COUNTY FAIR — will be held in Carrollton from the 26th to the 30th of September. Their premiums are liberal, but do not reach those offered for Morgan county.

THE CROPS — The wheat in this section is now harvested — crop light. The oats and grass are unusually good, and the corn crop promises a heavier yield than we have had for several years.

NOTICE — A discourse commemorative of the life and character of the late David A. Smith, will be delivered in the Westminster Church by the Rev. D. H. Hamilton on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock A.M., and by special request of numerous friends of the deceased, the same discourse will be repeated at Strawn's Hall in the afternoon at half past two o'clock.

HUMBUGS — There is a strolling troupe of theatricals, led by one Varney, who have some merit as actors, the farce consisting of their attempting to play "Uncle Tom's Cabin" here two nights last week.

We learn that the G.W.R.R. Co. is preparing to build an extensive depot in this city, the present building having found to be too small to accommodate the increasing business.

We have received an interesting communication from our old friend, B. F. Bristow, which we will present to our readers next week. Friend Bristow is traveling as general superintendent of the band of Sac and Fox Indians that recently exhibited in this city.

CROWDED OUT — We have several interesting communications which we are obliged to omit this week, and cannot promise to find room for them next week, but we will do the best we can.

The editors of French papers have been directed by the Home Minister not to publish any Papal bulls or decrees without the previous sanction of the government.

Don Pedro Candamo, the richest capitalist in South America, has just died in Lima, leaving a fortune which, it is asserted, exceeds the sum of 16,000,000 pounds sterling.

The authorities of St. Petersburg have just annulled the order which interdicted smoking in the streets.

Emma, Queen of the Sandwich Islands, is now on a tour, and it is probable she may visit this country.

A cruel parent of Quebec locked up his undutiful daughter because she wanted to marry a young lawyer. The young man, however, though poor in purse, was fertile in resource, and sued out a writ of habeas corpus for his beloved. As she was of age to decide for herself, the couple were married and went on their way rejoicing.

In the U.S. there are 10 different kinds of Baptists, viz.: regular, antismission, seventh-day, six-principle, freewill, river-brethren, winebrethren, dunkers, mennonites and campbellites.

Great demand for negro labor exists in Maryland. The farmers there are paying $15 per month for males, and from $10 to $12 for females, for field labor.

The daughters of the F.F.V.'s, in Richmond, are now engaged in working on clothing, for the U.S. Government Bureau; 600 are employed at their own residences, earning about $5 per week.

The University of Virginia, founded by Jefferson, is soon to resume its duties, with encouraging prospects.

There is an establishment at Jonesboro, Maine, in which 5,000 lobsters are cooked daily, and 4,000 pounds of the meat are put in air-tight cans of one and two pounds each.

The consumption of beer is rapidly increasing in the United States. In 1860, the amount sold was 8,000,000 of barrels. In 1864, the quantity used had increased to 24,000,000 of barrels, or nearly a barrel apiece for everybody.

The family of Admiral Dupont desire to contradict the statement, made without any authority, that he had left his prize-money, to the amount of $175,000, to a charitable institution in Washington. No such bequest was made, and the whole amount of prize-money received by him was something short of $50,000.

Our army on the Mexican frontier numbers upwards of 70,000.

During the eleven months, ending on May 31, the gross receipts taken by Barnum's Museum amounted to two hundred and eighty thousand, three hundred and forty-one dollars. Divided into quarters this will give about one million and a quarter of visitors for eleven months.

S. Jacksonville Receives 1st Fire Call In 8 Months

The South Jacksonville fire department made its first run in more than eight months Friday evening when an auto in the 200 block of East Michigan was reported afire.

The car, a 1956 Buick, owned by Wallace Tribble of 9 Turner road, sustained damage to the wiring. The vehicle was operated at the time by Linda Tribble.

Wes Slaid, South Jacksonville fire chief said that the last call received by the department was November 7, 1964, when a washing machine dryer caught fire.

The alarm was turned into the village hall at 7:35 p.m. and when firemen arrived in the 200 block of East Michigan, the fire in the engine of the car had been extinguished.

Delicious accompaniment for a soup and salad lunch: baking powder biscuits made with shredded cheddar cheese.

ONCE YOU USE LUCITE HOUSE PAINT

YOU'LL NEVER GO BACK TO "HARD WORK" PAINTS AGAIN

Once you see how "Lucite" flows on—how it dries in minutes—how it needs no special primer—how it saves you hours of work—how fast it is to clean up with soap and water after painting—how easy it covers wood, brick, stucco, masonry, cinder block, you'll never go back to oil base paints.

And "Lucite" gives you more—more years of wear—than ordinary paints. Tests on actual houses proved it. If you use "Lucite" according to directions this year, it probably will be the last time you'll have to repaint this decade. Need we say more?

NICHOLS PARK LADIES DAY GOLF NEWS

We must be living right lately. Two Tuesday's in a row without rain. I'm not complaining, just surprised that's all. OK, I'll be quiet, the less said about rain the better. A fine time was had by all last Tuesday at Nichols Park Ladies day golf. The play for the day was a point system. One point for a bogey, 2 points for a par and 4 points for a birdie. A "birdie," what's that? Ask Joyce Perbix, she knows. At any rate, like many times on ladies day, you give prizes for one thing or another, and all you run into are ties, or double prizes, or something like that, so after much deliberation here are the results.

Points, 1st flight, 1st, Joyce Perbix; 2nd, Rigi Fay.
2nd flight, 1st, Betty Price; 2nd, Peggy Taylor.
Low putts, 1st flight, 1st, Mary Ellen Glisson; 2nd flight, 1st, Doris Fairfield.

The tournament is moving along very well, with some of the second rounds being played last Tuesday.

The matches that were played are as follows:
1st flight, Rigi Fay vs Joyce Perbix; Fran Chumley vs Marge Howard.
2nd flight, Louise Cannell vs

Sara Warner; Della Birdsell vs Elizabeth Crabtree; Marge Walker vs Lucille Eberhardt.

There will be consolation matches played between the losers in the first round of play in the handicap tournament.

The pairings are as follows:
1st flight, Evelyn Cruzan vs Helen Little; Betty Dyer vs Blanche Reuck; Doris Walz vs Mary Ellen Glisson.
2nd flight, Mabel Ingels vs Liz Dowland; Ruth Jean Cisne vs Nancy Sommers; Gracia Coultas vs Lucille Eberhardt; Suzie Tucker vs Betty Price.

Winners for low net at Nichols Park on Wednesday, July 14th were:

Class A., a tie between Rigi Fay and Ellen Gross.

Class B., Delores Dix, Class C., Marge Hamilton.

Remember we go to Oak Crest Country Club Tuesday, the 20th. NOT Wednesday. The Coffee hour is at 8 with play starting at 8:30 a.m.

There will be no pairings for Wednesday.

Please make arrangements with each other to play off this match. You notice yours truly got beat out, but that won't stop me from plugging away, so see you there

— Fran Chumley

MANY VISITORS IN NORTONVILLE AREA

NORTONVILLE — Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Koehler and Richard, and her father, John Friend attended the recent Birdsell reunion at Nichols Park.

Mr. and Mrs. James Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Jones and children, Mr. and Mrs. Art Davis and Kathy and Mr. and Mrs. Jess Jones attended the Ward reunion held at Nichols Park Sunday. The latter 3 families spent the night with the James Jones family. Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Jess stayed for a longer visit.

North would have no trouble making four spades. He would ruff the third heart and play three rounds of trumps. That would leave East with a good trump but North would lead out diamonds and clubs until such time as East chose to ruff. Five diamonds would also make. North would have to play the king and ace of spades and ruff a low spade with one of dummy's high trumps before drawing trumps.

but this would not be too difficult.

Three no-trump would also have made except that the defense rattled off five heart tricks before South could gain the lead and each partner felt that the other was at fault for letting the hand play at three no-trump.

We have been appealed to for a decision and must assess practically all the blame to South. He bid no-trump over his partner's spade and three no-trump over his partner's three diamonds. After that second no-trump bid North was surely entitled to credit his partner with at least one stopper in hearts.

Of course, South did have a difficult bid over three diamonds but he could have solved his problem by bidding three spades. He would not expect North to go on to four spades without a good five card suit. Or South could have bid four diamonds which would have been all right.

Bang Up Reunion For Class Of '40

By HELEN GOACHER EVANS

Members of the Jacksonville High School class of 1940 enjoyed a 25th year reunion July 3rd at the Holiday Inn where the appropriate theme, Fourth of July Blowout, was followed. Fire crackers and sparklers decorated dinner tables and school colors of red and white were used in decoration and floral centerpieces. Pictured by the courtesy of Loella Sloan Young, are both graduates and their husbands and wives in candid pose.

Six graduates, Mr. Dale Jackson, Mimi Meyers Huntman, Anna Louise Rataichak, Robert Pine, Jean Livengood Gates and Joan Lukeman Fry.

Seven enthusiastic guests, Mr. Rachel Hubert Ricks, Eugene Glossop, Mrs. Glossop, Louise Sheppard, Bob Caldwell, Helen Goacher Evans and Arthur Vorhes, Jr.

There is never too much formality in a class reunion and everyone has a good time, as evidenced by this group, from left, Roberta Canatsey Haynes, Joe Farron, Fay Daniel, Louise Wolke Hatfield, Granville Evans, Mary Winters Loneragan and Helen Goacher Evans.

An enthusiastic crowd of over 130 members and guests assembled for a mixer at 6 p.m. where the renewing of friendships and greeting of classmates began. A buffet dinner was served at 7 p.m. following the invocation given by James Swain.

Robert Caldwell of Jacksonville, class vice president in 1940, skillfully guided the entertaining program as master of ceremonies.

Louise Sheppard
Class Advisor

Miss Louise Sheppard of LaGrange, Ill., Class Advisor was an honored guest and spoke briefly to the members.

Arthur Vorhes, Jr. conducted an impressive Memorial Service in paying tribute to the 12 deceased classmates.

John William Miller, James Fennessey, Warren Lucas, Philip Taylor, Russell Taylor, Mary Louise Gilbert Klem, Robert Weaver, Mary Irene Irlam, Thomas Caldwell, William Randall, Jr., Georgia Burmeister Harris and Roy Webb.

Eugene Glossop presented gifts to the two class members who had changed the least, Margaret Foley Johnson and Robert Suter. The class member traveling the greatest distance was Ethel Oberjuege Taylor from Hanford, Calif. and the member with the oldest grandchild was Dale Crowcroft.

Each graduate introduced his guest, read the quote from the Crimson J of 1940, and spoke briefly of his work and family. Many interesting highlights of the past 25 years were related. Helen Goacher Evans read correspondence from a number of classmates unable to be present.

Class officers in 1940 were: President, Robert Allan; Vice President, Robert Caldwell; Secretary, Lucille Kumble Crawford; Treasurer, Basil Sorrells, Jr.

The class at that time was the largest ever graduated from the local school. Its 215 members are now located in 29 states; six were not able to be contacted.

In Service

Three are in military service: Col. Robert Allan of Palo Alto, Calif., in command of the San Francisco Army Engineer District;

M/Sgt. John Loomis serving in Anchorage, Alaska;

M/Sgt. Harold Spencer of Yuma, Ariz., recently returned from service in Viet Nam;

William B. Miller in the Diplomatic Corps of the State Department's Foreign Service now assigned to the American Embassy in Bogota, Colombia, S. America.

A motion picture film taken at the 15th reunion of the class in 1955 was shown by Trussler Howe.

Plan Ahead

The members unanimously voted to hold another reunion in five years. Dancing was enjoyed with music furnished by Howard Bowe's Combo.

Members on the program committee were Rachel Husted Ricks, Mary Margaret Lair Howe, Lucille Kumble Crawford, James Swain, Eugene Glossop and Robert Caldwell.

The decorating committee, was composed of Mary Winters Loneragan, Robert Newport, Helen Lair Dickman, Wallace Ricks Smith, The contact committee was Arthur Vorhes, Jr., Grace McFarland Canatsey and Helen Goacher Evans.

Anniversary A Special Event For Cass Couple

BEARDSTOWN — The story of Anastasio Cansino probably would not have furnished Horatio Alger a suitable plot for his famous "boy makes good in the city" stories, but Anastasio is proud of his accomplishments just the same.

He and Mrs. Cansino celebrated their golden wedding anniversary July 10 at Schultz Hall, St. Alexius Catholic church, and hundreds of townspeople swelled the crowd on hand.

The couple were married July 10, 1915 in the Temple of Saint Luis, Nahuatzen, Mexico and in 1921 they came to Beardstown to make their home.

Mr. Cansino was employed by the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad for 40 years and he and his wife raised their family of 10 daughters and two sons, bought their own home, and became a part of the community.

The daughters are: Mrs. Joe Nila, Mrs. Ralph Cruz, Mrs. Robert Russell, Mrs. Manuel Hernandez, all now of Aurora; Mrs. George Hall of Haburg, N.Y.; Mrs. John Knight of Springfield, Mrs. Jack Schroll, Mrs. Phillip Baer, Mrs. Tom Brewer, Mrs. Rosalie McCubbin, all of Beardstown. There are two sons, Sebastian of Aurora and Leo of Las Vegas, Nev.; 35 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

MRS. ADKINS IS HOSTESS FOR ASHLAND CLASS

ASHLAND — Mrs. Gladys Adkins entertained sixteen members of the Loyal Daughters class of the Church of Christ at her home July 13. The president, Mrs. Grace Dalton, presided.

After the business session, a short recreation period was enjoyed by all. Mrs. Ruth Savage read scripture and two readings were given by Catherine Cosner. Mrs. Grace Dalton had charge of the Bible quizzes and contests on birds and trees.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistant, Mrs. Mary Douglass.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hibbs and daughter, Georgia Ann, have returned home from a few days visit with Mrs. Hibbs's sister, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Gordon and family of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Parsons and family of Decatur, and the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Woods of this city, spent the weekend in Edina, Mo., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Woods and family.

Mrs. Jacqueline Tasker has returned home from St. John's hospital, Springfield, where she was an observation patient for a few days.

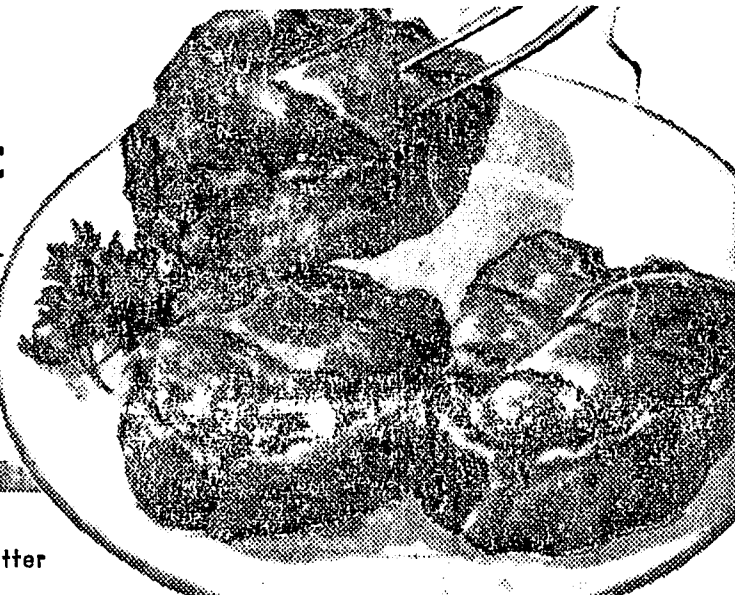

Mr. and Mrs. Les LaFauce and family, Miss Linda Martin and Don Stapleton of Springfield, were weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Durako.

Misses Sylvan Siv, Anna Rose Jokisch and Mrs. Bernice Hayes left Sunday from Springfield for Chicago, and by plane from there for Seattle, Washington, and a tour of Canada.

'Make It With Wool' Contest Announced

Illinois women and girls who like to sew are eligible to compete for numerous merchandise prizes in the 1965 version of the "Make It Yourself With Wool" contest, sponsored in the state by the Illinois Farm Bureau Women's committee.

The "Make It Yourself With Wool" contest is aimed at promoting the use of wool in clothing construction. Rules and entry forms are available at the county Farm Bureau office.

The Illinois competition is divided into three age classifications: The junior division for girls from 14 to 16; the senior division for girls from 17 to 21; and the adult division for women over 21.

Contestants are to make a garment from domestic wool and model the garment at one of nine district contest style shows. A girl attending college (or working away from home) may enter the contest in her college district.

Then To Chicago
Merchandise awards will be given to district winners in each age group.

District winners will be eligible to compete in the state style show and contest in conjunction with the Illinois Farm Bureau women's conference at the annual meeting of the Illinois Agricultural association in Chicago next November. State winners in the 14 to 16 and the 17 to 21 age categories will compete for a trip to Portland, Ore., to represent Illinois in the national contest on January 20, 1966. The runner-up will receive a sewing machine.

And To Europe
A national Grand Prize winner will receive a 14-day trip to Rome, Paris, London, and Ireland.

The state contest is the final phase of competition for the adult category in Illinois. The state winner in the adult class will receive a $50 gift certificate.

ROODHOUSE CLUB BOARD GUESTS AT HARP'S COTTAGE

ROODHOUSE—The executive board of the Roodhouse Senior Woman's Club met July 9 at the W.O. Harp cottage east of Roodhouse. A carry-in luncheon was served at noon.

Plans for the coming year were discussed and business matters completed. It was announced that more flags were ordered and will be sold by the American Citizenship committee. Fourteen members of the board were present.

The next board meeting will be held at 2 p.m. Friday, Aug. 6 at the home of Mrs. Lee Lewis.

Howard K. Thompson has arrived home after a visit with his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Richard Thompson, and family, Seattle, Wash. His son passed away in the winter. En route home, Mr. Thompson spent some time with a daughter, Mrs. Edmund Bartel, and family, Kansas City, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Bartel of Kansas City, Mo., are the parents of a daughter born June 12. She has been named Elizabeth.

Mrs. Bartel is the former Edna Jo Thompson of Roodhouse. Howard K. Thompson of this city is the maternal grandfather.

Cards Nip Mets 8-5 As Result Of Boots

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis, taking advantage of errors by Al Jackson and Roy McMillan, erupted for six runs in the sixth inning and defeated the New York Mets 8-5 Friday night.

Trailing 4-2 going into the sixth, the Cardinals tied it on a walk to Dick Groat and singles by Phil Gagliano, Curt Flood and Bill White.

Then, with runners at first and second, Mike Shannon bunted, and Jackson fired wildly to third, allowing Flood to score the tie-breaking run.

After Gordon Richardson relieved Jackson and filled the bases by walking Bob Uecker, Jerry Buchek grounded to McMillan. The shortstop threw low to the plate, and White and Shannon raced home. Lou Brock closed out the scoring by singling in Uecker.

White Sox Gain With 4-3 Victory

CHICAGO (AP) — Floyd Robinson, who earlier tied the game with a two-run double, tripled home the winning run in the 11th inning, boosting the Chicago White Sox to a 4-3 victory over the Los Angeles Friday night.

Dean Chance, pitching in relief for the Angels, started the inning by walking Don Buford. Tom McCraw forced Buford, but Robinson followed with a triple to right field.

The loss gave Chance a 6-5 record. Eddie Fisher, who pitched the 11th inning for Chicago, became the American League's first 11-game winner. He has lost three.

SERVICES FOR OLYMPIC WINNER

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Funeral services will be held Monday in the Old Cadet Chapel at the United States Military Academy for First Lt. Ronald L. Zinn, whose sixth-place finish in the 20-kilometer walk at the Tokyo Olympics last year was the best an American ever has done in a walking event.

Lt. Zinn was killed in action in Viet Nam July 7 in a search-and-destroy mission in D Zone near Saigon. Burial will be in the West Point cemetery.

Lt. Zinn, who came from Peoria, Ill., was a member of the class of 1962. He was attached to the 173rd Airborne Brigade. At West Point he starred in track and cross-country, and in 1960 he made the Olympic team — first cadet ever to do so — and finished 19th in the 20-kilometer walk.

SWIMMING MEET CHANGE

The Jacksonville Country Club swim team meet with Pekin, scheduled to be held at the local pool Sunday afternoon, has been changed to the visitors pool in Pekin. Starting time is 1 p.m.

Cisne Cops Jaycee Golf Tournament

Jim Cisne won his second straight Jaycees Junior Golf championship Friday, nosing out runnerup Steve Bockemeier by three strokes.

Cisne fired 71 to Bockemeier's 74 in the 15 and over division, and will represent Jacksonville in the state Jaycees tournament in Kewanee Monday.

Jim Dowland won the 12-4 class with an 18-hole score of 84. Eddie Tighe whipped George Hardesty in a sudden-death playoff for second.

Tom Murphy copped honors in the 9-11 age bracket, firing a 64 over nine holes. Mike Cooper was runnerup with a 66.

Twenty-one players in all were entered in the annual event, twice postponed because of rain.

Athletics Knock Off Leaders 10-2 With Big First

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — The Kansas City A's rushed in four runs after two were out in the first inning Friday night and went on to a 10-2 romp over the Minnesota Twins.

The A's added three-run clusters in the third and sixth innings while Diego Segui checked the American League-leading Twins on seven hits.

Mudcat Grant, the Minnesota starter who lost his third game in 12 decisions, retired the first two men he faced.

But Dick Green walked and Ken Harrelson, John Blanchard, Tom Reynolds and Mike Hershberger followed with singles, scoring three runs. After a walk to Nelson Mathews, Segui singled to finish Grant.

REAL ROOKIE

LOS ANGELES — The Los Angeles Rams' new offensive line coach, Bill Austin, played varsity football for Oregon State at the age of 16 and was a National Football League rookie when he was only 20.

Jose Cardenal of the Los Angeles Angels stole 40 bases in 45 attempts with Tacoma in the Pacific Coast League in 1964.

Willy Coultas and Mariann Regan are the Junior tennis champions of Jacksonville after winning their respective divisions in the finals of the Junior Division of the JOURNAL COURIER Jacksonville City Championship Tennis Tournament Friday night.

Both earned the top trophy in each division. Coultas in the Junior Men's singles, and Regan in the Junior Women's singles, with outstanding tennis.

Coultas topped runnerup Steve Gaudio in a close 7-5 first set, then came back to take an easier 6-2 set and the match. Coultas is 15 and Gaudio 14.

Regan whipped Jean Coultas, 6-4, 6-3 to claim the Women's singles. Although quite a bit taller and five years older, Regan was pushed by Coultas' sister of the Men's singles winner, in both sets.

Willy Coultas reached the finals with a 6-0, 6-0 win over Lyndal White and a 6-2, 6-4 edge over James Greenleaf in the semi-finals.

Gaudio gained his finals berth via a 6-1, 6-2 triumph over Mark Herrin, a 6-0, 6-0 win over Bill Fricke, and a 6-2, 6-1 edge over Bob Durocher in the semi-finals.

Regan got to the finals Friday night with a 6-1, 6-1, edge over Barb Hess, and a 6-2, 6-1 triumph over Barb Doyle in the semi-finals. Jean Coultas got to Friday night with a 6-3, 6-2 win over Ann Lukeman, an 8-6, 6-4 margin over Sandy Price, and a 7-5, 6-4 count over Linda Hanley in the semi-finals.

Lopez' 3 RBI Spark Yankees Past Nats, 9-5

NEW YORK (AP) — Hector Lopez, inserted in the New York line-up for injured Tommy Tresh, drove in three runs Friday night and led the struggling Yankees to a 9-5 victory over hapless Washington.

Lopez drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single in the Yankees' important five-run third and got another with a sacrifice fly in the seventh.

Lopez, who has played more than many of the so-called Yankee regulars, took right field when Tresh was forced to the sidelines with a knee he twisted a week ago.

Ray Barker, another sub who made the starting line-up when Joe Pepitone was benched for light hitting, had two singles and an RBI.

Brown's Homer In 10th Allows Tribe 4-3 Margin

CLEVELAND (AP) — Larry Brown smashed a leadoff home run in the 10th inning, giving the Cleveland Indians a 4-3 victory over Boston Friday night.

Brown connected on a 2-1 pitch from Dick Radatz, who suffered his seventh defeat against four victories. The homer sailed into the left field seats.

Sixth-inning home runs by Fred Whitfield and Leon Wagner had given the Indians a 3-2 lead, but Boston tied it in the ninth against Sam McDowell on singles by Tony Conigliaro and Bob Tillman sandwiched around Lee Thomas' double.

It turned out to be a standoff, with MacCall deciding to pass over Cliff as his likely No. 2 singles Cup choice and Cliff saying he would not play for MacCall without close guidance by his father.

Tell Four Next Week
MacCall said he will announce sometime next week the four men who actually will play at Dallas.

MacCall said that at the moment his Cup doubles team choice included Ralston and Richardson, but there was a possibility Riessen could replace Ralston on the tandem.

All of the players named have been competing in the Clay Courts meet which ends Sunday. This is the sixth straight year Ralston has been named to the Davis Cup squad. The slim star from Bakersfield, Calif., who will be 23 on July 27, teamed with Chuck McKinley to win the famed trophy away from Australia in 1963, but the Aussies regained the cup last year from the same McKinley-Ralston team.

McKinley, ranked second nationally, has retired from major competition.

Richardson is returning to Davis Cup play after an absence of six years. The 31-year-old Phi Beta Kappa from Tulane and former Rhodes Scholar has a perfect record in 10 previous zone series-16-0 in singles, 2-0 in doubles.

Richardson, top-ranked in the country in 1956 and 1958, is in the securities business. He currently ranks No. 7.

Ashe, only Negro ever to make the U.S. Davis Cup team, is on the squad for the third straight year. The UCLA ace is ranked No. 3 in the country and is national collegiate champion.

Braves' Power Tromps Pirates In 12-2 Runaway

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Wade Blasingame scattered 10 hits and Felipe Alou and Rico Carty powered home runs as the Milwaukee Braves whacked the slumping Pittsburgh Pirates 12-2 Friday night.

Blasingame lost his chance to become the first Braves' pitcher to throw a shutout this season when Roberto Clemente drilled a two-run single in the seventh inning.

The Braves provided Blasingame, now 10-7, with a three run cushion in the first inning as they jumped on losing pitcher Bob Veale for three runs, two scoring on an infield out.

Redlegs Split As Alton Takes Second In 9th

A home run by Bob Watkins with a man on in the top of the ninth gave Alton Trio Lounge a 4-2 victory after the Jacksonville Redlegs won the first on Fred Curtis' two-run homer in the third.

Curtis homered again in the sixth to tie the contest and send it into extra innings. The split gives the Redlegs a 12-20 mark for the season thus far.

After Alton took a 1-0 lead in the opener, Curtis followed Bob Hembrough's single in the third with one over the left field fence. Rich Dixon protected the lead the rest of the way in a four-hit effort.

Jacksonville's first run in the nightcap came when Jerry Johnson singled and advanced on a sacrifice bunt by pitcher Jack McNeely. He scored on a double steal after Hembrough was hit by a pitch. Curtis tied the game with another round-tripper in the sixth.

Court Affirms $460,000 Butts Libel Judgment

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — A federal appeals court affirmed Friday the $460,000 libel judgment awarded Wally Butts as the result of a controversial Saturday Evening Post story about college football fixes.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, divided two-to-one, held the Curtis Publishing Co. story, "The Story of a College Football Fix," a subtitle read, "A Shocking Report of How Wally Butts and Bear Bryant rigged a game last fall."

A federal district court jury in Georgia found Butts had been libeled and awarded him $3.07 million in damages. Dist. Judge Lewis R. Morgan subsequently cut the amount to $60,000 in general and $400,000 in punitive damages.

Alabama football Coach Paul Bear Bryant sued Curtis for $10 million because of the Post story. He later accepted a $300,000 settlement and the suit never went to trial.

Butts sued because a Post article said he gave Georgia football secrets to Bryant. Butts was then Georgia's athletic director. Alabama won 35-0.

In rejecting Curtis' appeal, the 5th Circuit majority termed the suit "no ordinary libel case."

"The publication of the article by the Post, in the face of several specific appeals that it refrain from doing so," the majority said, "was part and parcel of a general policy of callousness, which recognized from the start that Butts' career would be ruined."

"The trial judge's appraisal of the evidence, with which we are in complete accord, was that it was sufficiently strong to justify the jury in concluding that what the Post did was done with reckless disregard of whether the article was false or not."

"We think that Curtis has had its day in court."

The majority opinion was signed by Circuit Judge John R. Brown of Houston, Tex., and Dist. Judge Adrian Spears of San Antonio, Tex.

Circuit Judge Richard T. Rives of Montgomery, Ala., dissented. He said the district court erred in not granting Curtis a new trial in the light of a New York Times decision handed down six weeks after the Butts case judgment.

The Post said the Times decision set stricter rulings on malice that ruled out most of Butts' libel judgment.

Reds Tip Phillies To Retain Lead 5-1

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds, staked to two unearned runs in the first inning Friday night, breezed to a 5-1 victory over Philadelphia behind the five-hit pitching of Sammy Ellis.

The Reds knocked out Phillies starter Jim Bunning with three runs in the seventh, stopping his victory streak at five. Ellis brought his record to 13-4.

Emphasis Turns To Money Angle In Brown Trial

CLEVELAND (AP) — Testimony in the trial of Cleveland Browns fullback Jim Brown turned from sex to money Friday as court adjourned for the weekend.

Brenda Ayres, the 18-year-old girl who has accused Brown of assault and battery, spent most of her third day on the witness stand saying, "No" to questions by Norman S. Minor, Brown's attorney.

Minor's questions were directed toward an alleged telephone conversation June 21 between Miss Ayres and Paula White, her 16-year-old girl friend who introduced her to the 29-year-old All-Pro fullback.

Minor asked:
Q. Did you tell Paula that, "Mother told me it would be necessary for me to tell some lies. That if they let Jim Brown do all the talking, he would clear himself, and I would look bad, and we wouldn't have a chance in a civil suit to get the money."

A. No, sir.
Q. Did you say to her "Paula, you help me, and you'll get something out of it."

A. Mr. Minor, I did not talk to Paula on that day so I couldn't have said those things.

Minor finished his cross examination in late afternoon. Asst. Police Prosecutor Albert Corsi said the girl may be called again Monday for re-direct examination. After that, Corsi said, he probably will call the girl's mother, Mrs. Barbara Ayres.

Miss Ayres had previously denied she said that Brown would give $1,000 to have her leave him alone. Friday she said Brown gave her $60 to visit a sick uncle in Dayton, Ohio, but testified it was "a gift."

Brown, married and father of three children, reportedly makes $50,000 as a player and has added income from endorsements. He also is employed off season in the public relations department of a soft drink company.

Butts, former coach and athletic director at the University of Georgia, filed suit as a result of the March 23, 1963, article entitled, "The Story of a College Football Fix." A subtitle read, "A Shocking Report of How Wally Butts and Bear Bryant rigged a game last fall."

A federal district court jury in Georgia found Butts had been libeled and awarded him $3.07 million in damages. Dist. Judge Lewis R. Morgan subsequently cut the amount to $60,000 in general and $400,000 in punitive damages.

Alabama football Coach Paul Bear Bryant sued Curtis for $10 million because of the Post story. He later accepted a $300,000 settlement and the suit never went to trial.

Philadelphia first baseman Dick Stuart let in two runs in the first when, with two out, he dropped a throw and Pete Rose and Vada Pinson scampered across.
